GEN'L HARRISON-CINCINNATI COM-

The recent response of Gen'l. Harmson to the whi sumed that office without his warrant or consent. Gen. HARRISON's opinious upon questions of policy have been to repeatedly declared and so fully developed in nany of Gen'l. Harrison's exemics have heen pester treachery like this. They are a disgrace to Kentucky and low indeed is the moral standard of that once high minded people if their party strategy recognizes such base means of attacking a political fee or they countenance the miserable eves-droppers who could lescend to such an errand. It did not escape the penetration of Gen'l. HARRISON's experienced eye, that these men entered his house as spice-and it was BLAIL AND KRUDALL of the Globe have refused to wing to the benevolence of his who now affect the greatest indignation at General HARRISON's being, as they falsely aver, under the gag of a committee, were the most noisy declaimers against when he was before them for the presidency. Take n example: When Gen. JACKSON was a candidate the Senate of Indiana requested the governor of the state to address a respectful letter to him, inviting an expression of his opinions, which had been varie Ac. The letter was written, and the following is an extract of Gen. Jackson's answer to it:

"Hermittan, Feb. 29, 1828,

"Sir: I have had the honor to receive your excelency's letter of the 30th ult. endorsing resolutions of the senate of Indiana, adopted, as it appears, with a view of ascertaining my opinions on certain politics testics.

a view of ascertaining my opinions on certain possicate topics.

"The respect which I entertain for the executive and senate of your state excludes from my mind the idea that an entriendly disposition dictated the interrogatories which are proposed. But I will confess my regred at being forced, by this sentiment, to depart in the smallest degree from that determination on which have always acted. Not, sir, that I would wish to conceal my opinions on any political or national subject; but an they were, in various ways, promulgated in 1892, I am apprehensive that my appearance before the public, at this time, may be attributed, as has already lean the case, to improper motives."

When this correspondence appeared, many though that an application from a branch of the Legislature of a State stood on grounds which entitled it to a difent answer. But not with many of the leading strent answer. But not with many of the leading supporters of the administration.

Gen. Jackson's reply," says the Richmond Enquirer, of April 29, 1939, "is such a one as might have been expected from the singular resolutions of the Legislature of Indiana, and the elaborate and (we must say) insilious letter of Gov. Ray. Did this Governor think to entrap him by spreading his web so far around him? Esse why did he put so many particular and categorical questions to Gen. The locofocos are burrahing tremendously mertion of R. N. Wickliffe, of Kentucky, from the whig party. The Difference—The P---

Tax Dirressec.—The Evening Post and a Yan Baren paper in Philadelphia are pointing out some of the differences between the two recent Baltimore conventions. But there were several straking particular in which they were unlike, which those papers have not soticed. In the first place, every state in the micro was represented in the one, and not half of the states in the other. Secondly, a small band of office-holders compused the one, and ten thousand of the paople formed the other. Thirdly—a generous and patriotic enthusiasm glowed in the bosons of the one, while the other was as cold and heartless as a flock of vampyres brooding by moonlight on an incherg. Fourthly—a moh and a marder marked the one—a solemn funeral and a generous contribution to relieve the sfillieted, closed the proceedings of the other. In the fifth place, the joy of anticipated victory lighted up the patriotic faces of the one, while the gloom of certain defeat clouded the drooping brows of the ether.
