A ROPE OF NECKTIES.

Cowboy Dude Uses His Large Assortment to Escape from Jail.

Requested That His Collection of Some 800 Brilliant-Hued Scarfs Be Given Him When He Was Locked Up.

"Tankee Ted," who has been known as the "cowboy dude" in the Sweetwater country, by reason of his partiality for neckties of various kinds and hues, is credited with an escape from the county jail of Sweetwater in a remarkable and curious manner. Ted's method of diversion, when he came to Laramie, Wyo., after the round-ups, was in the purchase of neckwear, and ally increased in intensity until it behe has been known to depart for the came almost unbearable. Soon the range country from 200 to 300 neckties richer on various occasions. Recently the cowboy was arrested for misappropriating cattle, and lodged in the Sweetwater jail until the grand jury should or to discover the nature of the cause meet, in default of bail. He made but | of the disease. Finally it became evione request, and that was that his neckties he allowed to keep him company, going on, and that the hand was slowly and they were brought in from his range headquarters by some companions. It is calculated that the boxes thus taken into the cell contained some 800 ties, the styles ranging from the latest bows to four-in-hands. Ted's ceil was in the third story of the jail, and the warden was considerably surprised the other morning, on going to the back of the building, to find a rope of gaudily colored four-in-hands dangling from the window of the cowboy dude's cell. Investigation showed that he had forced two of the bars at the window, woven a strong rope from his multitude of ties, and gained his liberty. The only wonder expressed in the Sweetwater country is that the fastidious cowboy allowed the necktie rope to remain after he had made his escape.

EAGLE'S STIFF FIGHT.

Hunters Come Upon Him Unexpectedly and Have Their Hands Full.

George Clerio and Claude Stiles. while hunting for rabbits around Lake Mohpac, in the northern part of Westchester county, on Tuesday morning, came to a steep cliff overlooking the lake, says the Mount Vernon (N. Y.) correspondent of the New York Press. They saw tracks of a rabbit in the ow leading to the edge of the cliff, and cautiously followed them.

Clerio, who was leading the trail, suddenly stopped and jumped back as a big | geon, including service in three hosgray eagle came flying swiftly toward

"Fire, quick!" Clerio shouted to Stiles. Both raised their rifles, but before the former could pull the trigger the big bird was upon him. His comrade fired, but only wounded the eagle in the leg.

By this time Clerio was in the clutches of the eagle, which jabbed its big claws in his body, tearing his flesh and his clothing. Stiles was afraid to fire again for fear he would kill his chum, so he tried to brain the bird with the butt of his gun. Clerio, though give up hope. Finally he managed to unsheath a hunting knife which he carried in his belt, and this he plunged into the eagle's breast. The big bird released its hold, and, tottering to the edge of the cliff, allowed itself to roll over. It struck the ice-covered lake with a crash and was crushed into an unrecognizable mass. Both hunters are getting along all right, and enjoy telling their experience.

MILITARY TOURNAMENT SURE. Gen. Miles Gives His Indorsement Heartily to the New York

A letter received by Col. C. H. Luscomb, president of the Military Athlevic league, New York city, from Maj. Gen. Nelson A. Miles dispels all doubt as to the holding of a military tournament in Madison Square garden in the spring. The officials who are arranging the carnival were uncertain as to the position which the military authorities would take regarding the appearance of the regulars at the tournament. In view of the recent war, their participation in the exercises is regarded as necessary to the success of the event. Gen. Miles, in his letter, warmly indorses the proposed carnival, and favors the idea of having the regular army represented. He asked Col. Luscomb to let him know particulars as to what troops will be required. Now that the greatest difficulty has been overcome, preparations for the affair will be commenced. A meeting of the executive committee will be held this week and plans looking for the attendance of detachments of the regulars who saw service at Santiago formulated. Col. Coe, commander of Governors island, has also expressed his enthusiasm over the tournament and only waits instructions from the war department before completing arrangements for the representation of his detachment.

Hard Luck for Kipling. Mr. Kipling has had a piece of hard luck. He wrote the story of the burning of the Sarah Sands for a London newspaper and must have thought that he was safe, as it happened 41 years ago. The commander of the vessel at the time is, however, still alive, and has written a letter finding fault with many details in Mr. Kipling's story.

HE BECAME OSSIFIED.

A Pennsylvania Man Who Carried an Umbrella Constantly and Lost His Arm.

William Michaels' habit of carrying an umbrella cost him an arm. He returned to his home in Parker, Pa., recently after several months in a New York hospital, says the Journal. Mr. Michaels formed the habit of carrying an umbrella at all times and places. For many years he has continued this practice, using his umbrella as a walking stick. The constant pressure of a portion of the handle upon the ball of the thumb finally caused a diseased condition, but rarely found or recognized by the medical profession. The disease began with a slight but continuous pain in the hand, which gradumuscles of the ball of the thumb began to contract and harden, apparently to grow fast to the bone. Parker physicians were unable to give any relief dent that a process of ossification was turning into bone.

It was not until the fingers had become hard and rigid, and until the disease had paralyzed the wrist and showed signs of progress almost to the elbow, that Mr. Michaels awoke to the necessity of seeking relief among eastern physicians. He then went to New York city, where he was treated for several months without success. It was finally resolved to resort to amputation to prevent the process of ossification from extending to the body, and thus in time reaching the vital organs, when death would result.

His arm was amoutated at the elbow as the disease had not extended that far. He has not experienced any further trouble, and it is not expected that he will. The disease is of very rare occurrence, but a few years ago a member of the British house of commons was similarly affected, the cause being the habit of constantly carrying a walking stick.

CHEAP CURE FOR APPENDICITIS

Prominent Physicians Say It Is Amenable to Proper Medical Treatment.

This paper, says a physician in the Medical Record, is a protest against the current surgical theory and practice that all cases of appendicitis must be split open. This protest is based on 27 years' experience as physician and surpitals, one western fort, five years in mining surgery, five years in railroad surgery, 12 years in general practice on the central western plateau of Minnesota and four years in this great city, which-unique in the speed of its rise, unique in the snap of its people, unique in vast tributary territory and population-is decreed by the fates to be the hub of the earth in the nearby future.

My experience is that appendicitis and all other bellyaches for which men now operate are promptly amenable to proper medical treatment. I can recal! 100 cases treated with symptoms of this bleeding from many wounds, did not | malady-or of typhilitis or perityphilitis, as it was formerly called-but have never yet met a case of it in which I felt it was my duty to cut or which terminated fatally. Influenced by the prevailing craze to cut, time and again in coming to new cases of this kind l have thought: "Now, sir, your time has come; in this case you must cut." But, presto! simple medical treatment again prevailed. Later on I shall cite other unimpeachable practitioners who share my views that medical treatment avails in this malady, one showing 49 out of 51 cases successfully treatedbeing more than 90 per cent.

> My treatment for appendicitis is free calomel and soda purgation, to be followed by a saline if action is too slow.

WANTS TO REMODEL THE FLAG A Nebraska Woman Who Would Join All the Stars Into One

Big One.

Mrs. Fannie Olinn, a prominent woman attorney of Nebraska, who has offices in Chadron, West Point and Omaha, and who is one of the few women of America admitted to practice be fore the supreme court of the United States, is a strong advocate of a change in the placement of the stars on the American flag, and the plan which she advances is meeting with popular approval. Mrs. Olinn claims that there are so many white stars on the blue ground that a little ways off it only shows as one blurred mass and conveys no meaning to the mind as in the case with the 13 plain stripes. She suggests thearrangement of the 45 stars into one large star, divided into five equal points with room in the center and in the points for many more stars. This arrangement would be symbolical of the many states, stars forming the one great nation symbolized by the large

MAY SAVE THE MAINE

Wreckers Will Again Visit Havans Harbor to Look for Salvage.

Hope of saving the battleship Maine has not yet been abandoned by the United States government or the managers of the Merritt-Chapman Derrick & Wrecking company. It is the belief of some of the government officials and that of the wrecking company that at least some part of the Maine can be saved, and for that reason, a wrecking expedition is soon to visit the harbor of Havana for the purpose of making another inspection of the wreck.

MOST UNIQUE WILL.

Musician and Composer Orders Cheap Burial for Himself.

Don't Care Whether His Remains Are Buried or Cremated - Codicils That Are Void Because Not Witnessed.

The will of the late Charles Jerome Hopkins, the musician and composer, has been filed in the Passaic county (N. J.) surrogate's office. The document is in the handwriting of the author of "Taffy and Old Munch," and is witnessed by Lawyer Robert E. Vanhovenberg and Stephen A. Wall.

There are several codicils, indicative of the moods of the writer. His general estate is bequeathed to his brother, Rev. William Cyprian Hopkins, of Toledo, O., and the cantatas, operettas and musical scores are left to Mrs. Bina Fay Pierce and Miss Amy Fay, of Chicago. "I direct," continued the will, "that my body shall be either cremated or interred, whichever shall be the cheaper; if interred, then on my own property down at the bottom of the hill, and the spot to be without grave or monument, smoothed over so as to be unmarked. and burial to be made simply in winding sheet, without coffin, the expense to be paid out of my estate. If cremated, better put my ashes at Burlington, Vt., next to my wife's."

The will was written in 1891. On October 14, 1896, a codicil was added as follows: "As, perhaps, my grave might injure the value of Clover hill-my little country spot-in case of sale, better bury me anywhere else, place to be chosen by my executor." Another codicil revokes the disposition made of his musical compositions and manuscript and gives them to the Reformed church of Athenia to be published and sold, "copyright to remain at the church, so that a little something may yearly benefit the church and Sunday school." The codicils are not witnessed and therefore are not valid.

BURIED IN A CHAIR.

Oneer Funeral Arrangements of Massachusetts Man to Be Executed.

The wishes of Reuben John Smith, an eccentric man of 71 years who died the other day at Amesbury, Mass., were carried out in detail, and he was buried in a chair, wearing a slouch hat, and his costly marble tomb in Mount Prospect cemetery was scaled up by brickmasons.

Mr. Smith came to Amesbury in 1867 from Buffalo, N. Y., and nothing is known as to his early life or his relatives. He did paper hanging and whitewashing for several years and in later years drove the depot back. He was an inveterate checker player and a folly companion of the old inhabitants.

Through dread of being placed in the ground, he built a marble sarcophagus last fall. He arranged that his body should be placed therein in a chair, and under no consideration was it to be put in a casket or buried in the ground. The sarcophagus is ten feet six inches by five feet six inches on the outside and six feet six inches high, with a hitch to the roof.

Some time ago Mr. Smith arranged with Undertaker H. C. Austin in regard to his burial, and among the suggestions he made was one that if it was winter time a soft felt hat should be placed on his bald head when his body was sat in the iron chair within the sarcophagus, but if in summer no hat was to be used. He also expressed a wish that the public be permitted to look upon his remains after they had been placed in the chair, and after that the entrance should be sealed up with a foot wall of brick, the outer steel door locked and the key destroyed. D. L. Bartlett, who has charge of Mr. Smith's affairs, had every wish of the decedent carried out after the funeral services.

Plans Made by John Birkenbine, a a Power Plant.

A company of New York and Buffalo capitalists interested in the project of developing the power of the whirlpool rapids has commissioned John Birkenbine, the well-known Philadelphia engineer and president of the Franklin institute of that city, to prepare plans for a plant to be built in the gorge of the Niagara river, and his efforts have just been made public. The project as outlined by Mr. Birkenbine contemplates the building of a power plant capable of producing 35,000 horse power, to cost $2,000,000. The chief feature of the scheme is to utilize five per cent. of the waters of the rapids in conducting it through a canal to be built inside the track of the Niagara & Lewiston railroad, the power house to be built around the bend of the river just below

Rich Pearl Fields Discovered. New pearl fields of great richness have been discovered off the coast of New Caledonia on the west side, according to United States Consul Wolf. at Noumea. He says that one shell contained the fabulous number of 256 pearls, and one little boat of 11/2 tons furnished last year 22 pounds of pearls. Up to this time the water has not been sounded to a greater depth than six feet seven inches, but the fisheries are to be further exploited by French and Austrian syndicates. Mr. Wolf says that the quality of the pearl shells is remarkably fine, and he urges that Americans profit by the discovery.
