The last mail gives us New-York dates of or importance.

According to every account, the faneral procossion at New York must have been large and imparing almost beyond example. The serimates of the number of spectators project varies in three papers, from 70,000 -- 100,000 -- and 150,000.

The ascendency of corrupt influence seems smeig our Northern brothers, that the elmost eachiers observance of moral principles. Which t ev have hitherto arroguted, must disappear before the daily narrations of criminal acts, which are denounced in the papers. New-Orleans, the name of which is frequently and feelingly associated with that of Sudom, is certainly a cauctuary of worth, if we compare the partial derelictions, insepa able from all large populations, with the extensive guilt which deforms so jety in some of our stater cities. Turn over the catalogue of human crimes, and you find them all-theft, robbery, arson, suicide, murder and raps widely extending over the far-famed "moral porth."

The subscribers to the New-Orleans Commercial Library and the public generally are respectfully in formed that the Library is now ready for the delivery of hooks.

The directors are happy to state that the Liby ry already contains about two thousand you linnes; consisting of a good collection of stans dard works in the French and English lane guages, and a selection of the most popular Nowels of the day. They have also ordered a choice selection of French and English books from the North, which will shortly be received.

They also purpose continuing to add new subplies in proportion as the State of their funds will permit and make arrangements for the reerption of all the new works as they issue from Resei g Rooms are Five Dollars intimation and Five Dulars a year payable semi-amually.

The Mooms will be open every evening (Sunday's expected) from half an Lour after sunset un il 10 o'clerk. The board of Directors carneely solicit the potronage of the public generally and of their brother Clarks particularly as upon that all no depends the future prusperty of the institution. It is a notorious fact there is scarcely a village in the United States that cannot boust of its public Library, and shall it be said that the great connercial emporium of the West is so lamentaby definent in an institution which in all countries is generally considered one of the most prominent evidences of the intelligence and public soisit of its citizens. We hope for the hopeur of our City that such a stigms shall no longer rest upor it, but that New Orleans shall soon become as celebrated for her public institutions as the already is for her commerce. They then said, in E glish, they would keep with the ship during the night, who should hoist to have reached such an exorbitant degree a lantern to her mixen, so that they could send their people and effects on board in the morning; to which the master of the ship agreed. They also asked the longitude, and received a reply : then hore away two points from them on a ba to leeward, when in the light the ship lost sight of her. > CHARLESTON, July 16. Fire on board skip Isaus Hicks .- About hall past I o'clock yesterday morning, the cargo of cotton in the lower forward hold of the Isauc-Hicks, laying at Ki Idell's whark was discoverd by one of her crew, who was sleeping in the forecastle, to be on fire. He immediately alarm ed the crew of the ship Science, laying at the same wharf, who came to his assistance; and, for some time, hopes were entertained, as the s noke was not very dense, that the fire could be smothered. It was found, however, that it could not be gut at or arrested, and about 4 o'clock, after great exertions on the , art of those assembled on board the ship, a general alarm was given, by ringing the fire bells. The Engine an: Hose Compunies promptly assembled, and com-menced playing upon the cutton in the hold; this method was persevered in for some hours, until they had filled the ship with 18 or 14 feet water-but it was not until 8 or 4 o'clock in the afternoon, that the smouldering remains of the fire were finally get at, and extinguished, by re-moving most of the coston between decks.

CASTAMPOLLARD, May 24.

The melancholy event which took place in this town yesterday, at the fair exhibits another instance of the character and conduct of he consubulary force, who are paid by the country for protecting the lives and properties of the people, as well as the people of society. During the fair, which was in general orderly and quiet, some trifling disputes took place. One of those occurred in the afternoon about six o'clock; the police some of whom were in a public house. suldenly entered their barracks, and having taken the arms and ammunition, advanced from thence into the fur, which is held in the square of the town. They had just appeared there when the quarrel had peased; seeing no occasion for their presence longer, they were returning. When some women and children, collected about a show in the centre of the far, began to shout and him. The police suddedly without giring any o ntion, over da de tentive and murderem tir of ball entridges in all directions, the effects of which on many poor defenceless victims, whom business or curiosity detained there to that hour, and now water in their bloud, are before n v eyen. Seron of those, five men and two wo men, are dead-they were killed on the sput. Another is in the agonies of death, and seven more, as fir as I have yet heard, are wounded. some, I fear, mortally, as amputation of their shattered limbs is absolutely requisite. The bullets entered the shops and windows of the inhamante, and it is almost miraculous that in these houses no blood has been spilled. While I write, the Coroner, Mr. Dixon, and a Jury, are viewing the hodies. I understand that the ma-gi-trates of this sessions have forward & a report

PRILADELPHIA, july 9. Attempted female suicides .- Net fewer even fernales, of diff rent agel attempted to pul period to their existence on Monday, three of shom were taken to the station-house in Covent-Garden, two to the Middlesex Hospital, and the sher two remained at their own houses. One of them, whose name is unknown, was taken to Mr. Staunton's, sur cop, in the Strand, in the first instance, where the stomach-pump was used, and it was discovered that at e had taken exalic acid; she was afterwards conveyed to the Middlesex Hospital, with but little hopes of recovery. Another female was detected by her husband in the street, swallowing the contents of a phial of laudanum, and she was carried into Mr. Clift's, the surgeon, in Clare street, where the prop r remedies were applied with success The latter case originated in a fit of jealousy. Another female in a high state of excitemen made an attempt to cut her throat in Hollesstreet. Clare market, but was happily prevented. The above attempts at suicide have been occa sioned, more or less, by the festivities of Whit suntide, and originated in disappointment in the feir votaries of mirth, who conceived that they were alighted on this occasi n by their false hearted awnins, who had gone off to Greenwick fair, leaving them to mourn disconsolate at
