

New Orleans Bee.

Vol. 73 SATURDAY MORNING

NEW ORLEANS, MONDAY MORNING, APRIL 7, 1862.

Vol. XVII—New Series. Vol. XXXIV.—Whole No. 12,364.

BY THE GRAPHE.

FRIDAY, APRIL 12, 1862.

DODGSON'S PAPER OF THE WORLD.

The publication of this paper is suspended until further notice. We have received no news from our agents in Europe, and we are compelled to do without their reports. We will resume our publication as soon as we receive any reliable news, probably before the first of May.

TUESDAY, APRIL 16, 1862.

General Order No. 10.—The Federal forces, under command of General Butler, yesterday, rendered for the first time, the salute of twenty-one guns, in honor of the President, at the fort opposite New Orleans. The salute was rendered by the gunners of the Federal batteries, and the gunners of the Federal forces, who were on board the gunboats.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 17, 1862.

TUESDAY, APRIL 16, 1862.

We sincerely wish to inform the friends of the South, that the news of the capture of Forts Jackson and McNeil, has been greatly exaggerated. They have not been captured, but they have certainly very dull activities still before them, whatever happens.

THURSDAY, APRIL 18, 1862.

TUESDAY, APRIL 16, 1862.

TUESDAY, APRIL 17, 1862.