In the SENATE, on the 13th, Mr. J. M. Clayton officed a resolution directing the Secretary of State of turns the Senate with certain information contected with claims for Fanach scale information. 1800. Adopted. Mr. Allen briefly addressed the Senate in favor of fixing a day upon which the Oregon debate might be terminated and a vote taken. He also gave notice that when the Senate should proceed to vote, he would move to lay the resolution of the Committee would move to lay the resolution of the Committee on Foreign Relations on the table, and take up the House resolutions, in order that the latter may be acted upon first. For the purpose of starting the question, he would propose that Wednesday or Thursday be agreed upon as the day for taking the vote.—After some conversation between Messra. Allen, Hannegan, Morethead and Webster, the subject was dropped, with the understanding that the vote be taken on Thursday.

Mr. Houston signified his intention of addressing

Mr. Houston signified his intention of addressir Mr. Houston signified his intention of addressing the Senate on the Oregon question on Wednesday. The Senate then proceeded to the special order, whereupon Mr. Huntington made a veryable speech in layor of accompanying the notice, if it should be given, with the expression of a strong desire for an honorable and meaning compromise—a mutual concession of a part of the extreme claims of both parties. He also made an able argument in flavor of compromise.

Mr. Mellenry, of Kentucky, moved to amend the oll and confine its operations or jurisdiction by the ine of 49°. Mr. Wentworth opposed any limitation if forty" speech. He expressed his surprise at the roteredings in the Senate, and declared that after the savage of the notice in the House by so large a material, he had fully expected that the Senate would have concurred. He now heard it said that the prethe concurred. The now neard it said that the pre-vability opinion in both branches of Congress and in the nation was, that we were again to offer the pro-position which England had before rejected three or loar times with contempt. He was not for settling the question upon 40%, and if the gentleman would change his pending amendment to 51% to the would change ms penating amendment to 519 to , he would cope for it.

Mr. Adams added that long before our treaty with Riessia, he had made up his mind that our country had the right to 519 40. He had been blained for assuming that this line was ours. It was no novel opinion with him. He had asserted it as long ago as the treaty with regard to Spain and Florida. He had with his core hand drawn the line team 429 to the with his own hand drawn the line from $20 to the extent of the Russian possessions. He said this no bossimply, but as a matter of fact, that the line trou $20 was drawn by him and agreed to by Spain an argument intended to show the validity of our is to the entire territory. Mr. Burt, of South Carolina, replied, contending at Mr. Adama was entirely responsible for much of embarrasement growing out of the question. He is responsible for the offer of Mr. Gallatin, and a as to him that Mr. Polk alluded when he said the offered 49° out of respect to his predecessors Mr. McHenry's amendment was then rejected. Mr. McHenry's amendment was then rejected.

Mr. Smith, of Connecticut, then offered an ame

thus sums up the prominent objections to use cour-Treasury:

1. Its permicious influence upon the corrency of the country. In the language used by the present official editor in 1897, it will establish "two sorts of currency, the better for the officers of Government, the baser one for the people.

2. Its incalculable expense.

3. The increase of Executive patronage which it must of necessity bring with it.

4. The diminished security of the Government de-nosites.

4. The diminished security of the Government deposites.

5. The inconvenience and loss of time it must occasion in the transaction of public basiness; and Lastly, its disastrons operation upon the laboring classes, in reducing the price of labor to the hard money standard.

To these objections, which were street barbarous usages of antiquity, we have never seen attained tory answers. In is unnecessary for us to gover again the arguments by which they were seen stalland. The following practical views of this subject, from an intelligent and particularity well-informed man of harmone, would well supply the place of any farthur zeroses, would well supply the place of any farthur zeroses.

TUSSAY, April 21, 1946.

Mr. Marks presented a petition from Mr Jureli asking to be emancipated. Reterred to a special committee. Mr Anaxs introduced an act amending the charter of the town of Plaquemine. Mr. Nicana.2, from the Finance Committee, submitted a favorable report upon the bills relating to the loquisation of the Atchafays and Exchange Banks. On motion of Mr. Garcia the Senate took up the bill to amend the charter of the town of Lafayette, and adopted the asme without amendment. The consideration of the bill defining the duties of Parish Notaries was resumed.

Mr. Mary proposed an amendment giving to these functionaries the power to celebrate marriages. Another long discussion followed. Mr. M. Whorras being of opinion that the privilege might as well be conferred, inasmuch as the Notary was already empowered to grant marriage licenses. Mr. Maxas opposed the motion as tending to concentrate townoush power in one officer. It was not worth while to aboush the office of Parish Judge, if all his duties were vested in a functionary with a different name. The debate was continued by Mr. Mayo, Judge Banarri, Mr. Soule, Mr. Taylox and Mr. Kanner. The semendment was lost, yeas 12—nays 14.
