Perhaps there is not the most complete concord among the teaders themselves, and they may be prevented by this circumstance from positively deciding on the person who cumstance from positively deciding on the person who inches anticipated.

Mr. Burden has undertaken a great enterprise—Fi shall have the honor of being supported by the party as ceeds he will nave his reward—but experiment alone can their candidate. In announcing the name of Mr. Holland, we foresaw this result, nor are we at least surprised at the length, with an average breadth of about forty feet, will look more like a floating, perhaps we should say flying island, then any thing that has yet been witnessed if the line floation too, the Argus has stuffed his article in reply to that which we published on Monday last.

The late rains have produced a partial rise of the Ohio at Argus, "has tried to play a new trick on the public." The late rains have produced a partial rise of the Ohio at Pritaburg and Wheeling, which, it will be sen, has not been which we meditate, (since a trick these is) is a mysterized to plass without improvement. From the Wheeling Times, Sept. 11.

On Saturday last there was a copious rain which has feat the election of D. Prieur. Besides that we have yet to be not been to charitably included, we feet the steamboat Lady Washington left this point or Cincinnativ, with sixty odd cabin passengers and a large number of deck passengers. Two other boats will, it is expected, greatest embarrassment to discover what other trick is meditated, and many persons participate in our embarrassments. Is it not indeed a wonderful trick mass the inchilie. who he is) to him whom we have reason god. This gives in the dague, have placed our cotemporary!

This gives in the logic is not the only sets disclosed by the article in quieties: there is another which merits atten tion. "It is neven months, says the Argus, from now it I the election of mayer—we think the subject in agisted prematurely." The Argus thinks probably that the interests of the city are se dear to the infinitents of the city, as the intersects of the state to the inhabitants of the state, and a vernor, its argument, if we are not deceived, amounts to this. that of governor in ten months we have already begun to discuss the last exection, while it is too soon to discuss the

From the Pittsburg Gazette, Sept. 9.

The river has risen about-ten inches, in consequence of the rain on Saturday and Sunday. It was at a stand, to-day at noon; but she full effect of the rain will not be felt here before to exercise morning. We expect a rise of three or four feet more. The present rise will let out full loaded keet heats, and has reduced freights to Louisville from 1064 to 693 cents per cwt.
