THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—A Summer Season.—In former years New Orleans presented the singular example, among all the large cities of the country, of having no regular amusements and artistic entertainments for the summer. This evening is designed to inaugurate a system of attraction for this season which will terminate after the heats of summer shall have passed away. The enterprising General Banks has already given to the city a theatre, whose only defect is its want of capacity to accommodate the crowds who would nightly throng to witness the performances of the talented company which has been engaged for the season. The Academy of Music has been refitted, refurnished and refreshed, and presents a most inviting appearance. The company engaged for the season is a strong one, and the performances will be varied and attractive. The opening night will be a benefit to Mr. Couldock, the manager, and the bill of fare is a most tempting one. The comedy of "The Jealous Wife" will be performed, and the ballet divertissement of "Le Diable Boiteux" will be given. Mr. Couldock will appear in the character of Mirabel, and Miss Kate Reignolds will appear as Lady Freelove. Mr. Couldock is a favorite with the public, and Miss Reignolds is a lady of fine talent and accomplishments. The ballet is a very pretty one, and will be performed by a full corps de ballet. The opening night will be a brilliant one, and we hope to see the Academy filled to overflowing. The season will be continued for a number of nights, and the performances will be varied each night. Let us have a season of pleasure, and let the Academy be filled every night.
