

Praxis in Action (PIA) is a boutique consulting firm dedicated to understanding patterns and paradigms in order to solve problems.

Praxis in Action is focused on bringing scale to innovation in the social sector; through the engagement, support and mobilization of private and non-governmental organizations, social enterprises, and philanthropists who are committed to cultivating youth leadership, policy, education, advocacy, and community transformation.

We focus our efforts by taking on projects that will enable public and private donors to make impactful investments that empower effective socio-economic and community development and address important social issues and systemic challenges.

We pursue these interests through our work with clients to determine where their activities can advance environmental sustainability, youth leadership, and poverty alleviation around the globe. Our knowledge development initiatives and convening efforts attract and enable innovative partnerships that build coalitions to advocate change. Our experts are uniquely capable of mobilizing the intellectual, financial and human capital required to evaluate, plan, design, finance and execute projects of any complexity. We encourage you to review our service offerings and to contact us for engagement if you have any questions.

PRAXIS IN ACTION (PIA) specializes in management and organizational development, strategic and operational planning, capacity building, participatory social engineering, social accountability, and governance and social safeguard policies.

It provides extensive expertise to various public and private sector clients across a wide range of development initiatives in the United States of America, Africa, Eastern Europe, and Asia. The success of PRAXIS derives from a thorough understanding of organizational development, strategic and operational planning, capacity building and social development priorities and the design of cutting edge approaches to address the identified priorities.

PRAXIS works in strategic partnership with people, companies and institutions as they explore extraordinary opportunities, manage and sustain growth, and maximize revenue. We pursue these interests through, knowledge development initiatives, and convening efforts. Our experts are uniquely capable of mobilizing the intellectual, financial and human capital required to evaluate, plan, design, finance and execute projects of any complexity.

PRAXIS work in partnership with social entrepreneurs, philanthropic foundations and nonprofit organizations to assess community needs, develop effective programs, align organizational strategies, and evaluate impact. Since 2005, these strategic partnerships have generated more than $15 million in funding that has resulted in practical solutions that ensure sustained development.
