Condition of Freinnd.

The history of Ireiand for many years past has been common chronicle of minery. Her unfortunate peo le seem to have become at once the victims of human rong and of Divine wrath. The evils of misgov rnment, of a stern, selfish and callons system of administration, that habitually neglects and contemns that beautiful country; the wretched principle of abinterism, the management of patrimonial estates by riping stewards and heartless bailiffs, who pluck our ie substance of the peasantry and wax rich on the indered earnings of unrelaxed toil, have done their orst in reducing the Iriah to a condition far more atolerable than servile bondage. But within a year two, to these sources of suffering has been added a isitation of Providence which has blighted by a new ange and seemingly remediless disease, the expecd sustenance of a whole people, conversing the tiling farm of the poor and honest cultivator into a outhsome and infectious awamp, redolent of noisome odors, which contaminate the atmosphere around is difficult to conceive a mose sickening state of general and hoperess wreteneuness, man that white-has fallen upon Ireland. Four millions of inhabitants of a people naturally brave, high hearted, frank. hrewd, honest, jovial and witty, in a word combin-any all the finest elements of the genuine Celtic race, aunged into the most cruel auguish, the most despete and reckless misery—oppressed by every evil the rate and reckies misery—oppressed by every evil that defective human institutions can engender, and a prey to starvation in its slowest, most agonizing and most consuming shape! It is a fearful spectacle!

Let it at all would full that, under such a combination of calculation are instanced. of calamities, patience should give way; that insubor-dination broods in the minds of the hanger gnawed populace, or that in those districts where famine has separate, or that in those districts where intuite no-assumed its most gaunt and appalling aspects, the multitude, in the tierce agony of want, should be wiling to encounter the bayonets of military coercion, in the desperate resolution to relieve their necessities at every sacrifice. We think not, and we find that even in England, there are journals that view the condition and conduct of the Irish as more worthy of pay than censure. The London Sun of the first of

October, presents a picture of the prevailing distress that might evoke the sympathies of the most harened: that might evoke the sympathies of the most harened:

Unhappily the patience of the unfortunate Irish is at length exhausted. We have now before us that most appulling speciale of national agony—a people driven to depend on the highest patients of the pa cain that their wreichedness was no longer endurable.

The sullen anguish depicted on every one of these melancholy faces is described by an eye witness to have attested sufficiently the extremity of their distress. "A more appalling speciacle could not be witnessed," writes one correspondent. Want and despair was the pervading characteristic of the multi-motion has been fulfilled. At the very commencement of this week, namely, on Monday morning, the peasantry at Dungas viru assumed such a threatening aspect, and congregated together in such dangerous inhers, that the multiarry were called out—severnit and the week of the motion of the definition of the definition of the definition of the desired of the that precede a tempest. If there were hope, strong ad abiding hope in the future, Ireland might be well starve on for a while longer. But each day a addsto present soffering, while the prospect of health postponed to the dubious and distant yield of mather harman. other harvest. Something to be sure is done by Government. Here and there impending famine emperarily averted. Isolated cases of terrible counts, the evil is too wide spread and too serious be notably diminished by momentary placebos aprehensive projects of general relief, involving cent Britain; and above all those whose coffers have een supplied by the ill rewarded labor of the Irish measurity, should be made to contribute bountfully to mer relief. Without vigorous, well sustained and 1 continued measure cess they are to be restrained from the desperatio that attends grinding pennry, and from the desperation that attends grinding pennry, and from those over-acts of violence which are so apt to follow the con-sciousness of dreadful impery and the conviction that the Government is one of the chief instruments of their suffering.

ory by the United States, says the Baltimore Ameri-an, is not at all agreeable to the British people, if the anguage of their newspapers may be taken as expresanguage of their in even papers may be taken as expre-sive of the public humor. The London Times de-scribes California as embracing in its extent nearly one half of the territories of the Mexican Republic. with splendid natural advantages scarcely yet touch-d, a soil in many places as fertile as the plains of inampagne, and a climate compared to the sons and kies of Andalusia. The magnificent harbor of San transaco is especially appreciated in the British intention of the advantages belonging to California. The surly displeasure with which the Times regards the coming transfer of California to the United States is murgled with a procedurations of the United States is murgled with a procedurations of the California. on which an ill-humored person takes in enhancing his own discomfort. It thus refers to the claims of English capitalists:

It happens, too, that the interest of England in this transaction is somewhat beyond that necessarily felt by every pation in whatever affects the validity and indinence of public law. That a stronger state should so granutously "annex" a weaker, is a precedent dangerous enough to demand at least a protest, but the matter is graver still when the property seized, is aiready charged with liabilities honesily and openly contracted towards a third party. For some of the numerous moneys with which our capitalists have been induced to support and stimulate Mexican enterprise this province is, we believe, our only security, and the rights of mortgages for which we exchanged our advances, are not to be demolished by the unscrupiousness of the invaders or the imbecility of the stillerers. In the character which each nation suctains in the commonwealth of nations we may protest against a piratical infraction of the inversational code, but in our capacity of honorable creditors we are bound to demand that our lear upon a mortgaged territory be preserved in its full integrity and the character which our learn upon a mortgaged territory be preserved in its full integrity.

thanks are due the author for a copy of this work.—

Mr. Colton is known as a writer of much acumen and ability on all subjects connected with political recommy. The volume before us is a very elaborate disquisition on the protective policy, in which the issues of a Tariff and Free Trade are discussed with great impartiality, and as improved. great impartiality; and an immense array of facts and arguments brought to bear in favor of Protection.—
The work is a perfect sads mecun for the neophyte in his department of political economy. In it may be found, we believe, every argument hitherto em ployed in defence of the doctrine, together with a umber of additional reasons and illustrations strik ing, ingenious and original. We shall probably have occasion to consult its pages frequently, and to lay be-fore our readers a portion of its contents.

THE BULLETIN made its appearance yesterday, un der the editorial auspices of Mr. Honor. In his ad-dress to the public, that gentleman gives a bird's eye view of his contemplated course. This paper will devoted, as a primary object, to the maintenance of the high position which the Bulletin has assumed as a commercial organ. Its polities will be Whio and the doctrines of the great conservative party of the commonwealth will be supported by the Bulletin, Horse, as a strong minded man, a writer of great in-formation and sterling good sense, and doubt not that he will prove an efficient co-operator in the great cause of polytical statements.

THANKSOLVING DAY .- GOV. Johnson has issued his Transserves Day.—Gov. Johnson has issued his proclamation, appointing Thursday, the 27th of November, as a day of public thankagiving and prayer. Louisians is the ninth State in which the same day has been selected, and we have no doubt that in every State is the Union the cause period will be chosen for the observance of this proper and ploss out-pouring of graditude to the Creator. We are indebted to the Hon. HENRY JOHN-

MATAMOROS, Oct. $5th.

Gentlemea:—After a severe illusem of near threeweeks, I am again upon my feet, and embrace the first morning out of my room to write you. On leaving the mostle of the river, (from which place I sent you a small account of the battle of Monterey,) I was taken sick, and during all the excitement which perided in this place, was unable to set up long enough

Carrespondence of the Bee.

The health of the place has improved very much, and the hospitals which were literally thronged on my arrival, have been very much thinned out, and many a Company now boasts sen or twelve members for dey more than they then had. The northers here have had the effect of bringing them out, and giving the new strength.

Matamoros has been remarkably quiet for som time, and the effects of the "news from Monterey" has nded very much to silence the Mexican bombast, which was so much in vogue before the news of the senied very much to silence the Mexican bombasi, which was so much in vogue before the news of that event reached them.

There is something wrong—or something wanting with the Q. M. Department at the Brazos. A nurable of vessels have been laying in or varside of the bar for a long time without being able to unload, and for damages the government will have to pay them from $50 to $100. Before I went to low Orleans the ship Burmah was lying off the bar with government stores and she is still there, without being unloaded, for which she will demand $100 per day. She was there the 9th of September, tand I don't know how long before and it is now the 25th October, making $5 days, which at $100 per day would make $4,500, and for aught I know, she may be there a month longer. The schooner Enfantua arrived there on the 25th ult., and the Captain, who is now in the city, don't know when he will be ordered to discharge.

There is a rumor here that the Governor of News Loon lasd decamped from Monterey, without furnishing the corn he promised Gen. Taylor, and that most of the families of Montery had accompanied him to the Mountains. Also that the Mexican forces had loss de Potosi. This comes in as believable a shape as most of the Mexican items, but the probability is aitogether against the Mexicans leaving their strong posts, for the opinion is now as general that they will oppose our advance, as it was that there would be he fight at Montery, and I think there is better grounditally should be a such an opinion upon. Another item by numor's express is, that a bearer of despatches from Camargo to Gen. Taylor, had been taken on the route, carried to the Mexican General, and immediately shot by his order—thelespatches being sent on the route, carried to the Mexican General, and immediately shot by his order—thelespatches being sent on the route, carried to the Mexican General, and immediately shot by his order—thelespatches being sent on the route, carried to the Mexican General, and immediately shot by his order—thelespatch

I sm of opinion that no better move could be made than to take Tampico now. It is a desirable place for a depot, and would greatly facilitate operations in the interior. It is wapered about that the important orders brought out by the Galveston to Taylor instructed him to take Tampico and leave Monterly alone. If those northern men come on there will be enough to hold Monterey, move on to San Luis and take Tampico too.

From ST. Jones, Newtocknian — Great Low of Life by the Late Norm — The St. John's, Newfoundland journals of the 7th inst, say there was a great loss of life at Barin, by the late gale. Ten large losts were lost, with forty-men on board, many of them having large famines, now rendered entirely dentitute. Great distress exists to the Northward, occasioned by the failure of the fishery, and the destruction caused by the gale, it is even said that many are now brought to the verge of starwards.

The Manyland Earthquage —We copied on Saturday, from the Boonshoro' Cldd Fellow, an account of a rumbling masse having been beard in that vincinity on Sunday night week, which was supposed to have been a slight sample of an earthquake. The Catocun Whig of Friday last, makes the following reference to it:

"About 9 o'clock, on Sunday night last, a rumbling noise was heard by many of our citizens, which seemed to pass through the heavens in a north westerly direction. So sensibly was the shock felt that the houses in this section fairly shook from itsefficies.—The question now arises, what caused the noise? The night being clear and not a cloud was to be seen."

The question now arises, what caused the noise! The night being clear and not a cloud was to be seen."

The Hagerstown News also has the following amusing reference to what may now be called the "Maryland Farthquake":

The whole haman family in this section of country has, for a few months past, been shaking with the chills, and on Sanday evening last, 'old mother earth' just in order to be in fashion we presume, took the infection and went through all the formalities of a regular fit of ague-in abort, our vailey has been visited by a slight shock of earthquake, accompanied by a rumbling noise, resembling distant thunder, which served to freighten some of our good citizens very gratifyingly:

The Army.—When the law was passed at the last session of Congress, for the increase of the regular Army to 15,000 men, the whole force in actual service did not probably exceed 7000. The enlistments since, we understand from an Army officer, amount to about 4000, and the discharges and deaths to at least 1000. Consequently the present regular force amounts to about 10,000 men; much the greater part of whom are now in Mexico, or on their way thither. Probably not less than 2900 requires in cluding the 600 recruits alout to sail from this city in the Massachusetts under Captain Hawkins, will have arrived at Point Isabel between the middle of October and the 20th November. Among the recruits are many old soldiers re-emiliated—the term of their former enlistment baving captured. Several companies of regular Arrillery bave recently left Fortress Monree, Charleston, Newport. &c., for the seat of war, and will soon reach their destination.

If, as has been rumored, the capture of Tampico has been determined on, we presume the land force employed in the expedition will probably be commanded by Gen. Patterson. The naval force will of course co-operate.

As the war is now going, there is a fair propact that the volunteers from the Northern and descent ed by Gen. Patterson. The naval force will of course co-operate.

As the war is now going, there is a fair prospect that the volunteers from the Northerm and Eastern States, or a portion of them, will soon be called into the field. If they are likely to be wanted, they ought to be under marbing orders forthwish. In reference to the volunteers now in Mexico, the time consumed in gatting ferward suppliers, &c., has not been toot, by a great deal. Those volunteers, after six months constant frilling, under skilled and expenienced officers, are made nearly open to regular in polari of discipline and efficiency, as is proved by their gallant bravery at the battle of Monterey.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.
