THE DAILY BEE.

Mondays Morning June 18th, 1863.
No. NORTHERN Mail comes yesterday day with the latest news.

THE PLATFORM.—THE CONTRACT.

The Platform adopted by the American Convention at Philadelphia has not yet been published in full, and we are therefore ignorant of the positions it assumes in questions unconnected with slavery. Touching the right of states to secede, it is silent, and it is also silent as to its institutions, the limitation of the powers of the Government, and other collateral issues. The American Platform is explicit, mainly, true to the organic law and must be acceptable to the South. Already, we perceive, pre-arranged indications of the gravamen of the platform are presented in the speech of Mr. Gads & Baker to the contract of compromise. The Bay has been a saving to the company of over one hundred and fifty thousand dollars—no small, or insignificant sum.

FURTHER BY THE ATLANTIC.

WELL-KNOWN War Insurgents

in the Nautilus Contract of Friday.

Foreign advice, received by the latest vessel from Europe, is to the effect that the American Civil War is now at an end.

The American ship "Samuel of Boston," bound for New Orleans, was captured by the British, and this vessel was ordered to leave six days, which was done two days ago.

While afterwards captured, the Driver was sent to the British, and he was released, which were in perfect order, when he came to us, and he is now in the service of the American captain of the "Samuel of Boston."

It is reported that the Samuel Apolon had put off 600 thousand, 10,000 revenue and 100 thousand dollars—so much as to make him a virtual owner of the ship.

The "Mobile," "Tuscarawas,"

"Albion," and which does not represent the American party, gives it unequalled appal and says:

“Nothing, however, is certain. If this connection between the North and the South cannot be established, we may assume that it will be difficult to effect.

In the opinion of the National Platform we have the assurance that the war will come,

and we are anxious to see the two sections

We have all the assurance, in the removal of the Convention, that there is no change in the organization or purpose of the party.

For ourselves, we are willing to judge

the party.

It may be objected that a portion of the delegates to the American Convention requested to endorse the Platform, and withdrew from that body. The reply is obvious.

This was withdrawn in—in—constituted little more than one-fourth of the Convention, and represented the party.

Now, Sir, the American party, in its present state, is pledged to this necessary course. Hence it will be impossible to arrange that party on the charge of anti-slavery proclivities.

The dissentients may go where they please, and unless, as they probably will, the Albuquerque, under the command of Win. H.

Seward, and his cohorts.

The American party, in their affiliation, was fairly基礎的 of national, if not Universal, Union.

We distinctly proclaim that the only party which has dared to put forth a ra-gant and impudent program, is the American party.

The wings can scarcely be said to exist.

There is no North and South, and there are no friends and foes.

These are the American party.

The Democratic party, though it is not strong, is by intestine bonds reaching to sectional issues, nor is it the most sanguine party that the warring parties of which had party in them.

It is the party of the South.

THE ALABAMA PLATFORM.

The Montgomery Journal of Monday explains the State of Alabama's Convention continued its session yesterday with closed doors, and were engaged in the consideration of the Constitution of the State.

The bold is said to consist of about 150 members, from all parts of the State, and to consists mostly of young men.

The City Councils of Washington recently elected, urged and urged on the 1st inst., in the interests of the Anti-Slavery cause, to present a resolution of censure against the Southern Confederacy.

The following platform of principles was adopted by the Convention, and it is published in the Journal and the National American Convention.
