THURSDAY MORNING, JUNE 26, 1854.

We are authorized to announce JAMES BRADFORD, of Feliciana, as a candidate for Congress for the Second District.

REPUBLICAN MEETING.
Saturday evening, 26th inst., at 7 o'clock, the friends of John B. Dawson assembled at Davis's. It would be a work of supererogation to attempt to cross the path of any of them—they are all equally aware with ourselves, that his election to the gubernatorial chair is essential to the prosperity and welfare of the State. Let us show the aristocracy, that nothing can impede us when obtaining for our rights and privileges. Let us show them that in seeking to abuse us we are above them. Let us go in creeds; our honor is at stake. Let us throw darts and conversation among them and give them a foretaste of the defeat they are destined to suffer at the polls in July.

The Whig press says nothing in commendation of their meeting. This is a bad sign. We have understood that about 400 persons were present, of whom at least one hundred were Democrats, who had been led thither by curiosity. Did this meeting exhibit all the strength of our blustering opponents?

The Louisiana press is disbeliever as to the intentions of some of the Whites to violate the rites of hospitality during Gen. Dawson's stay in the city. If they have been induced to abandon their original design, we are sincerely glad of it, not only on account of the distinguished individual against whom the menial assaults were to be directed, but on their own, for they could not have failed to repel the contempt and indignation which such conduct would have inspired in every noble breast.

After so many proofs of the vile means resorted to by the press in the interest of Mr. White, to uphold his sinking cause, we can no longer restrain ourselves from charging them with the greatest share of insolence, fully and mendaciously. Would it be believed that one of them has the effrontery to announce that John B. Plaque, an ensign and consistent democrat, assisted at the White meeting on Wednesday evening last, as a Vice President! That gentleman has pronounced his political sentiments every where, and they were well known to the masses of the people who have misrepresented them. How contemptible how stupid!

We have received the following letter from a gentleman in New Orleans, whose veracity may be relied upon:

To the Editor of the Bee.
Sixteen years ago, I published a few days ago, in the two Advertisers of Louisiana, in relation to an affair which occurred at the house of M. Lassere, on the 15th of June, 1838. I regret the indulgence of making a few observations on that article, and the letter in which it was published, is a gross misrepresentation; if not a wilful and malicious falsehood, so far as Gen. Dawson drawing a dirk, and attacking a man, when about to commit murder, is concerned. In the first place, it is untrue that he drew a dirk; in the second, it is untrue that he was arrested; and in the third, it is untrue that he had an angry or disagreeable word with any one on the night in question. When I was with his friends at a private party in M. Lassere's company, Gen. Dawson was called upon by Mr. Prosper Marigny to separate and tranquility Messrs. Armand and Blanchard, who were quarreling; a quarrel arose, and who were fighting it out, to use the common phrase. He did not separate them, and the affair terminated. The quarrel did not originate with a reference to political opinions concerning the gubernatorial election. This is the real state of the affair as it occurred; and it challenges contradiction. Is Gen. Dawson then guilty of an error, because he prevented two men from fighting each other? I think not. And now what is the ground of the charge? It is a charge which requires the support of some glaring falsehoods. Will the virtuous and high-minded of the White party shrink from it with indignation? And will they not be ashamed to propagate such a charge, and to feel that they are guilty of a crime?

Yours, &c.
The Washington Globe holds the following language in relation to the affairs of the general Post Office. That paper says that he is not allowed to show the judgments of the majority of the committee, is manifest by the tone and spirit of their report, which forms a sad contrast to that of the minority in those particulars as well as others.

The Committee of the Senate on the Post Office and Post Roads, after a long investigation, set only into the condition of the Post Office, and the manner in which it is managed, and the means of improving it, and the means of securing the country, they have conceived it to be their duty to present a report, which they have done. It is in all its features a most valuable and interesting document, and one which every citizen should read. It is a most valuable and interesting document, and one which every citizen should read.

THE TORNADO OF WEDNESDAY.
We give the following additional particulars of this disastrous storm.

THE LONDON GLOBE OF THE 10TH MAY SAYS—We have been gratified to state that the 10th May dispatch has been received at London, and that the Government are now in possession of the full details of the disaster which has befallen the city of London. The intelligence was brought to us by the London Globe of the 10th May, and we are glad to see that the Government are now in possession of the full details of the disaster which has befallen the city of London.
