BOSTON Dec 16.

It is now very perceptible that the high rates that money has recently commanded, are rapidly on the retrograde movement and it is the general opinion of our most intelligent merchants that the pressure and embarrassment which has prevailed for some length of time is nearly, and will soon be entirely at an end. The Banks now discount pretty freely, and the quantity of paper offering is rapidly decreasing. The high current rates paid during the past week have not exceeded 2 per cent, and the principal negociations have been effected at 1½ per cent per month and under.

ASHES—The transactions in this article continue very circumscribed; prices have varied but little from last week. Pearls are heavy of sale, and prices unsettled; a few sales have been made within our range of quotations. Pots are in better demand, with small sales at 7 a 7½c.

COFFEE—The market continues very languid, and previous prices are hardly obtained. Small sales St Domingo to the trade 11 a 11½c; 100 bags Porto Rico green, handsome, 12½c; 50 do do bale 12½c per lb; 200 bags St Domingo were offered by auction 13th, 50 sold 10½c per lb, as; 25 bags Havana 10½c per lb, 4 ms. A recent import of 1000 bags St Domingo has been entered by the importers.

COTTON—We learn of no sales that require particular notice: prices of fine qualities, for which there is a moderate demand from manufacturers, keep the same; purchasers buy sparingly, anticipating a decline in prices.

FLOUR—The transactions in Genesee have been quite large; common brands have ranged from 10,37, 10,50 a 10,50, and fancy 10,62 a 10,75, which is an advance. At the close of our report holders had advanced their prices 12½ a 25c per bbl. The market for Southern (shipping description,) is heavy, and prices have declined. Sales of 100 bbls Fredericksburg Lowland 10,75, 4 ms; 100 do Baltimore Wharf 10,50 6 ms, and 150 a 200 bbls do 10 12½ per bbl, cash: Small lots of Howard street and extra brands of Southern have sold in small parcels to Bakers, something above our quotations.

MOLASSES—No change of consequence has taken place in this article; the sales are not large, the stock being too small to admit of any large transactions; a few hundred hhds Havana distilling quality sold in early part of the week 36c; about 200 hhds Trinidad, of a recent import, sold on landing 40 a 43c, according to quality, 6 ms. Sale by auction 38 hhds St Jago 39½ a 40½c per gal; 60 days.

SUGAR—The rapid decline in the price of this article which has recently taken place, has not ceased to attract the attention of purchasers until within the past week or ten days, during which time about 2000 boxes of Cuba, of low to fair qualities, have been bought up for export at 5 a 6c per lb, short price. The sales to the trade embrace about 300 boxes, 84 a 9½c per lb, 6 ms. There is but little doing in bbls Sugar: 34 bbls fair quality Porto Rico sold by auction 13th 8½c per lb, 6 months; have also been some further exports from first hands.

TOBACCO—A sale of 150 bales Cuba was made at 20 cents.

CHARLESTON Dec 20.

COTTON—The market for Upland has undergone no change since our last weekly report. It has remained quite inanimate, but we have not learned that any reduction in prices has been submitted to by holders—A choice article is still in good demand, but very difficult to be obtained. The transactions have been few, and range principally at from 16¾ to 17¼. Choice is held at 18 cents, and in some instances that price has been paid.

In Long Cottons there is no alteration; all qualities continue in good demand; very few Maine and Santees in the market.

RICE—Likewise has undergone no change, except the inferior qualities are somewhat easier obtained at our last week's quotations. A choice article still commands from 3¼ a 3¾.

From the Albany Argus of Dec 17

THE WEATHER.—During the last two days, the whole face of things has undergone a change. The cold severe; the thermometers at 18, (14 degrees below freezing); the boat of Thursday barely making its escape; the navigation closed now probably as far down the river as Poughkeepsie; and no mail from the south since Wednesday evening.

NEW-ORLEANS:

WEDNESDAY MORNING DEC. 28, 1836.

LAKE BORGNE CANAL.

We are gratified to find the Lake Borgne Canal Company has at length begun to proceed in a manner which must ensure success. This is probably the most useful project of public improvement ever undertaken in Louisiana, and undoubtedly, for the amount of funds required for its execution, it will be the most profitable to all engaged in it. To the holders of landed property in the lower part of the city, its beneficial effects are not to be easily estimated.—It will give to that quarter an impetus on the march of improvement which will soon make it the rival of the most prosperous and wealthy portion of New Orleans. We have no hesitation in predicting that before the revolution of another year the work will be accomplished.

NEW HAMPSHIRE SENATOR.

FRANKLIN PIERCE, a member of the House of Representatives, is elected senator in Congress from the state of New Hampshire.

INDIANA SENATOR.

Mr. SMITH is elected senator in congress from the state of Indiana in the place of Mr. Hendricks.

REVENUE OF THE YEAR 1837.

The secretary of the treasury estimates the receipts into the treasury during the ensuing year at twenty four millions of dollars, nothing like the amount of the present year. The expenditures are estimated at $26,755,831, upwards of two and a half millions more than the revenue, and the secretary seems to intimate that the states will necessarily be called upon for a proportion of the deposites. We always regarded the distribution act as a source of mischievous and dangerous altercation. Here it appears, that in the first year of the distribution, repayment of part of the funds distributed may be demanded, and a quasi notice of such demand is given before the distribution takes place.

But we think it not improbable that the secretary has erred in some of the estimated items of receipts into the treasury: he puts down the customs at sixteen millions, which would appear too low unless the unusually large importations of this year should diminish the amount of the next year, to effect which diminution the artificial embarrassments of the money market, in this country and in England will further contribute. He puts down the sales of public lands at five millions, an immense falling off from the present year, which effect he doubtless infers from the operation of the treasury circular relative to specie payments for lands. Here again, we humbly conceive he is mistaken: speculations in public lands have been found too profitable to be thus in a moment abandoned. Lands will continue to be purchased and paid for so long as the purchasers can make money from them. It is not probable, on the whole, that the expenditures of the year 1837 will exceed the receipts.

The synod of South Carolina and Georgia, at a recent session, unanimously passed resolutions "enjoining it upon their delegates to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church to disavow all right of legislation or discussion whatever on the subject of slavery, to refuse to mingle by vote or speech in any act which involves even a discussion of the subject, and requiring them to withdraw from the General Assembly and come home, upon any attempt of that body to legislate or discuss that subject at all, with the single exception of the simple disclaimer of that body to interfere in any way with it."

Unpopular as the projects of the fanatics are throughout the whole North, there is no doubt that they have within the two past months been contriving some new plan of operations for the promotion of their infernal schemes. A convention of their delegates lately held their sittings in the city of New York, but, conscious of their guilt and aware of the obnoxious light in which they were held by their fellow citizens, they thought it necessary to meet in conclave—they assembled in some concealment unknown to the public, who were not apprised that such a conspiracy was in agitation, till their business was finished and the session adjourned sine die. The most conspicuous members of the fraternity seemed to fear that their presence in New York should be known, and they skulked from their places of residence to the meetings under the obscurity of night. Nothing could more clearly indicate their guilty designs and attempt to hide their proceedings from the public gaze. And what do they mean to accomplish? Experience surely ought to have taught them that their operations can be of no possible benefit to the colored race bond or free: on the contrary they only render necessary a stricter and more inexorable system of police, and cause the indulgence and comforts to be withheld, which the master, in the absence of these complots against his peace and security, would readily grant—We cannot imagine what motives impel them to their atrocious line of conduct. It has been surmised, and not without reason in our opinion, that the leaders of the fanatics have something in their views deeper and more important than merely to rail at the institutions of the south: they have their dupes among the multitude of ignorant and credulous old women of both sexes, who have little suspicion of the ultimate consequences of their machinations. Look at the abolitionists and nullifiers in congress—no two sects are so diametrically opposed to each other in their profession of political faith, and none are so friendly in their private intercourse, or so intimately united when a measure is under discussion whereby the feuds in relation to the topic of slavery may be amicably and satisfactorily compromised. They would seem to have a common object in view, though to all the world their speeches and writings appear so antagonistical. Our suspicions rise involuntarily whenever we hear an outrageous declaimer on either side of this question, like another Semphronius, sounding the alarm when no danger exists, and urging revolution as a remedy for evils which may be cured by a firm and peaceful appeal to the mode of redress designated by the constitution.

Col. R. M. Johnson.

We beg the attention of our readers to the article which we republish to day from the New York Star, the editor of which is Major Noah, one of the ablest and most zealous opponents of the democratic ticket at the late election. It is a curious and candid acknowledgment of the merits of the Democratic candidate for the vice presidency and a confession of wrong done him by the major in the heat of party spirit during the canvas. We are glad of this act of justice to a virtuous and patriotic man, even though it be tardy and postponed to a moment when it can do him no good—when his enemies cannot injure him, and his friends can render him no service. It is probable that the senate will not have an opportunity of choosing the vice president—if the votes of Michigan should be admitted, (and we know of no reason why they should be refused) Colonel Johnson is elected by the electors without the intervention of a second elective body.

The slanders which have been spread against the Colonel by religious and political hypocrites many of whom are themselves ten times more guilty than he of the very acts laid to his charge, are fully refuted by Mr Noah, and the facts of the case stated exactly as they occurred. If colonel Johnson's friends were so disposed, how easily could they retaliate upon his revilers? how easily could they hurl back into the teeth of some of the Whig leaders the allegations brought forward against him?

From the N Y Evening Star.

THE VICE PRESIDENCY.

The Richmond Enquirer will not permit the Virginia electors to vote for Col Johnson as Vice President, on the ground that they are pledged to vote for a Mr Sm th, whose location is not exactly or definitely known, and a few votes only from the Virginia election may decide the question in the colleges. Several of the Whig Southern papers prefer Mr Tyler to Johnson, and are willing to give up Granger to bring in a Virginian Vice President. Several at the North are in hopes that Mr Granger will be elected. Now, as it is certain, we apprehend that Mr Van Buren is elected, we most desirous that he should carry in with him the candidate to be originally consented to run with. It is decided by against the interests of the country and the success of the Whig party, that our future struggles for public good should be neutralised, by holding the second office, and that a mere nominal one. All or nothing. If a battle is to be fought we must have none of our men in the enemy's camp.

With the best wishes towards Mr Granger, and a perfect confidence in his integrity and capacity, and an ardent desire to see him elected by the people, his success in the Senate would only double the existing jealousy towards New York. It was impolitic to take the chief Magistrate of the Union from the most powerful State; but what would be our situation if President, Vice President, and part of the Cabinet were selected from the State. The just rights of the State would be always considered an illiberal claim, jealousy would be denied, until jealousy, suspicion and distrust would be every where fostered, and shotgun of New York nomination,—New York avarice and monopoly would make us every where believe. Besides it is despicable in any of the friends of Mr. Van Buren, now that he is elected, and secure to cabal his associate and kick him out of the office. They have been nominated together, have run together, and we are disposed to keep them together like two figs in a jar.

But no nothing is due on the score of strict justice to Colonel Johnson—something from old attachments,

IN SENATE.

MONDAY, Dec. 19, 1836.

The chair presented the credentials of James Buchanan, elected a Senator from Pennsylvania for the term of 6 years from the 4th of march next.

Several private petitions were presented and referred. Among the petitions.

Mr Davis presented the petition of E J Robinson, a missionary of the Protestant Episcopal Church, resident in Greece, stating that he had had several children born in that country, and praying for the passage of a law to give to them the rights of citizenship, Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr Buchanan presented the petition of a number of merchants and other citizens of Philadelphia, praying an appropriation for a site for a new Custom House; referred to the committee on commerce; also, a petition from many of the judges and lawyers of Philadelphia, setting forth the inconvenience to which they are subjected in the present Court House, and praying an appropriation for a new court house: and suggesting that a new custom house and post office could be erected on the same site; referred to the committee on the Judiciary.

Mr Wright presented a petition of the merchants of New York who were sufferers by the fire of December last, praying that the duties on certain goods may be remitted or refunded—referred to the committee on finance.

Mr Walker offered a resolution relative to the erection of an arsenal at Columbus, Mississippi.

REDUCTION OF REVENUE.

Mr Calhoun after giving notice that he would on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a bill to extend the provisions of the 14th section of the Distribution Bill of last session, beyond the present year, and he would take the occasion to speak of the chairman of the committee on finance, if when he moved the reference to a part of the message on the President so that committee, he had included in the motion so much as relates to the reduction of the revenue.

Mr Wright was not prepared to say whether the particular subject came in the scope of the motion, but the committee had not as yet compared their view on the subject.

Mr Calhoun then said that, in order to remove all ambiguity, he would move the reference of so much of the President's message, as relates to the reduction of the revenue to the committee on finance. The President had treated the reduction of the revenue merely as a financial question, and he would therefore submit the motion he had named.

PUBLIC LANDS

Mr Clay, on leave, introduced a bill to appropriate for a limited time the proceeds of the public lands in the United States, and granting lands to certain States, which was read twice, and referred to the committee on public lands.

Mr Clay, in introducing the bill made some explanations, in substance as follows. He stated that a Bill which had several times passed the house, in reference to this subject, had fixed the commencement of the appropriation for the last day of the year 1837. The present report were Messrs Arm s, Bayne, Cornell, Cooper, Crane, T Duplessis, Guthrie, High, W W Irwin, Leiper, Lewis, Loaire, Lessesne, Colonel Talcott, Gardette, Brodie, and Wilcox—17.

Members absent, Messrs Bateson, Canon, Grahame, Fredericson, Pickel, Pearce and Stringer.

On motion the absence of Mr Stringer was excused.

The journal of the preceding sitting having been read & approved, the council proceeded to the reading of business set on the Mayor stated to

On motion said letter was laid on the table, subject to the call of the council.

On motion of Mr Correjolles, the council dispensed with the rules, in order to take into consideration the ordinance on the order of the day, for the appointment of an inspector of public works, and other concerns in the 5th district.
