The Flag of the Union is an ardent supporter of the administration, and enjoys a large circulation among the faithful in Alabama. The editorial notice of the article in question, is in the fol-

"Boad the article on our first page—it is from the same pen that so graphically depicted the Whig party, in the relection we published from the same able re-view a few weeks since. The philosophy of democra-cy, and the Christian tendency of its principles—in-fact its identity in principles and spirit with Christiani-ty itself, are beautifully and eloquently vindicated.— We commend the article most specially to those purse groud Whige, whe habitually turn op their articoratic mosts, and sneer, with affected contempt at the very same of democracy, as if it were a vulgar thing, in-rended only for the illiterate. Some such we have in this city—men of thousands, who cannot refrain from spreading their hasred and deteatation of every thing emocratic. We have the charity to believe of them, that it is owing to their ignorance of that which they

Is it not maxing that a paper avowing such principles should find its way into a Southern Journal? Is it not passing strange that a Southern Journal should the people, and inflicting a lasting injury on man.

That such are the sentiments of the morthern locofuces is not surprising when we call to memory Mr. Van Burkn's connection with the Missouri restrictionists, and his vote to give black people the right of suffrage; but we could hadly have supposed that party subserviency has made such sad have of individual independence, as to induce a Southern Editor to endorse and circulate such tree sonable doctrines: Yet, perhapa, this same Editor endeavors to foster the obloquy of abolition upon the whige, asserverates that Harsinon's nomination was a peace offering to the northern fanation; in the face of the article, reproduced in his own journal, and in the teeth of his own enderseemen.

The article was republished in the Great Western last Thursday—with the omission of the paragragia upon slawery, an eclipsis for which the Professor will not thank him.

Another common stander against General. Haising of abolitionism, is that of federalism. Letter from Jadge Berner of Cincinnati, to the honWM. Sentragate, of Kentacky:

Cincinnati, Feb. 27, 1840.

My Dear Str:—I remark, in reply to your letter of this ascraing, that thermay the contest between Mr. J. Jeffersen and the elder Adams, General Harmon and myself were residing in the North Western Tertitory, and of course had not the privilege of vating. At that time, I was in habits of great intimacy with of Ceneral Harmon, although I was faderalist (honestly so.) and he a Republican of the Jeffersen school.—I supported Adams warmly, and he, with couls were the supported Mr. Jeffersen. During the controvery from 1795, inclusive, I conversed and argued with him times without auxiliar.—he sustained Mr. Jeffersen, and I Mr. Adams. You may assure your friend, that it there was not a mese consistent, decided supporter of the Jeffersen. I state to you what I saw, and beard, and know.—
When the Alien and Sedition law passed, the General was not a member of congress. He sesisher vated nor had an oppartunity of voting on that law.

Your friend,
Hon. W. Sourmeare.

How perfectly consistent with the principles of the spells party are the appaintments of Jone M. Nicas and S. C. Camerinon—the one a twice defeated definited candidate for congress. Heroic martyrs in the suffering cause of locofocoism! you well deserve the praises of your party, the smiles of the execu-tive and the golden honors you have received.

Oak Lawn, May 8, 1840.

Gentiemen—I received to day your letter of the 97th
alt. post marked Opelousas, the 6th inst. inviting me to attend a meeting of the whige of the parish of Rapsless on the 16th of 8tay.

An indisposable engagement on matters of business made some time since, which requires my preence in New Orleans on the 16th inst. places it completely out of my nower to carticipate in your ap-the cost of preduction—and worse than su, tow compensation for the labor of the poor and hard-working and a stready reduced, or rapidly approaching a reduction, which will scarcely afford subsistence to himself and family.

The administration and its supporters in congress it is tree are taking us, that this is the best possibly state of things that can befull the country, and they boust that so soon as labor is as low here as it is in Caixa or in irreland, we shall be able to manufacture goods so cheaply that we will underself the production. But while we may meet them in competition. But while we may meet them in competition. But while we are resorting to this miscrebile argument, to avert the heavy carees which now assall, and for a long time will follow them, I am goat to see that they are containing subleast their host. The free-tool. But when we are recording as the macrone argument, to avert the heavy curses which new amail, and for a long time will follow them. I am giod to see that they are counting sublect their host. The freemen of this land, who have been in the habit of enjoying the comforts of life, through the fit priot they have herstofore received for their labor, do not seen to understand the advantage of requieng them to powerty, in order that the country may be rick—ar rather, making the mass wretched, that large capitalists may swall their colounal factures. They are beginning to enquire into the causes of this change in their condition, and to examine into the trust hand the tendency of the doctribs preached to them.

The moment they do this, and they are rapidly doing it, the country is eafy; all that the whije can desire is, that the people shall enquire and reflect. It is now ten years since a set of men came into power, profiting by an honest but misguided enthusiasm for a gallant and successful oddier. When they "exicut the hoise of stata, the condition of no human society which history records, presented such as example of extensive happiness—public and private confidence was unknowned—labor was justily resumerated, capital could be suffly and profitshly employed, and a constitution of the civilized world, reashed all men to conduct their business, curricy, andly and conaveniently.

What is our condition now? The very reverse of all this. And to what came is the change to be stributed? Ret cortainly to the people—more can yold have been as active—as industrious, an enterprising as they ever were. Our crops have been as active—as industrious, an enterprising as they ever were. Our erops have been as active—as industrious have affected as. Why is it then, that we are thus strichen to the earth? If the finit is not in the people, and the calamilies which sourge on have a sure own from God, to what other cause can they have account our thus returned and the cause for count of the count of the count of the count of th
