THE GREAT SUEZ CANAL.
One of the great achievements of the age, and one of the most important commercial enterprises, is the Suez Canal, which has been opened to navigation since the 15th of July, 1869. The canal is 163 miles long, and will shorten the route from Europe to India by 7,000 miles. It is the shortest route between the Mediterranean and the Indian Oceans, and will save 20,000 tons of freight and 100 days of time. The canal is owned by the Suez Canal Company, which is a joint stock company of French, English, and Egyptian capital. The canal is now open to navigation, and is expected to be one of the most important commercial enterprises of the world.
