NEW-ORLEANS, FRIDAY EVENING, July 9, 1841.

We are again compelled to refer to our former remarks as a criterion of the trifling amount transacted during the past three days: everything remains as it were, which signifies that things continue as dull and uninteresting as can possibly be imagined. The weather since our last has been very warm, the thermometer generally ranging above 90° in the shade, but we are happy to add that the health of the city is universally good. The river is 9½ feet below high water mark.

COTTON—Arrived since the 8th instant at Louisiana and Mississippi, 164 bales—Texas, 71—together, 235 bales. Among the total receipts since the 1st of October, 77,019 bales, against 91,612 the season previous. Cleared in the same time for Liverpool, 42,615 bales; London, 94; Havre, 1,800; Bremen 40; New York, 119—together, 2,968 bales—making a reduction in stock of 2,603 bales, and leaving on hand, exclusive of all on shipboard not cleared this day, a stock of 24,430 bales, against 63,997 at the same time last year.

A considerable amount of business has been transacted in the cotton market during the past three days, and the sales embrace about 1,800 bales, comprising principally of North Alabama and Tennessees, with some small lots of Mississippi. Prices on the whole have undergone no change, and our quotations remain unaltered.

TOBACCO—A few purchases have been made within the past three days for the north of Europe at previous prices, which continue to be well sustained. We quote four running lots, 4; 5; 6; 7; 8; 9; and 10 @ 8 c. SUGAR—The market has exhibited no important change during the past three days, and the sales which have come to hand, limited, are at previous prices, ranging from 4½ @ 5½c. for extreme qualities. The fine description continue in good request and command full rates. Nothing has been done in molasses.

MOLASSES—The market is very dull, without any alteration in prices, which we quote at 22 @ 25c. per gallon.

FLOUR—In consequence of the light receipts a degree of firmness has been imparted to the market, and fine superfine can be quoted at $4 50 @ $4 75 per barrel. The greater portion of the late arrivals have turned sour, and the stock will soon be reduced roughly on the score. There is a good inquiry for consumption, but buyers for export are out of the market.

PORK—This article continues very much depressed, and in repeating our quotations we would remark, that the demand during the past three days has been on the most limited scale. Mess, $10 00. Prime, $8 00—M. D., $9 00. P. C., $8 50. Bulk Pork, 4½ @ 5c. per lb.

BEEF—Although the stock of this article is extremely moderate, it being comparatively reduced to nothing in fact here do prices are not affected in consequence of the trifling inquiry. No. 1 we quote at $12 @ 13 per bbl.; half bbls. $4 50 @ 5. Prime, $7 50 @ $8 per bbl.

LARD—Only a trifling parcel will be well command at 7c. per lb. Sales are reported at 6½ @ 7c. The richer grades are in request and tierces at 6 @ 6½c. Shelling, 5 @ 5½c.

BACON—We are unable to notice any change for the better on this article, and in fact there are no quotations which can even with truth be obtained. Hams, 5½ @ 6c. Sides, 6@6½c.—shoulders, 4@4½c. Canvassed Hams, 7½@8c. Sugar cured do., 6½c. Barrel, 4½ @ 5c.

WHISKEY—There is a fair demand for retail, at 20 to 25 @ gallon at which rates several holders refuse to sell. There is no common in use.

BAGGING AND BALE ROPE—There is scarcely any inquiry, and prices are nominally the same as last quoted. Kentucky bagging, 27½@30c. India, 9@12c. Kentucky bale rope, 6½@7c. German, 12½@13c. Kentucky Rope, 11½@12½c. Manilla do., 7 @ 9c.

CANDLES—The market remains in the same inactive state that it has been for some time past, accordingly there are few demands coming to the front. Mould, 9½ @ 10c. Sperm, Best Bedford, 41 @ 42c. Northern, do. 40 @ 41c. Prices remain as last quoted. Adamantine candles continue in request, and command full rates. Factory, $1 10 @ $1 20. Star, $1 30 @ $1 40. Tallow, 8½ @ 9c. Wax, 20 @ 22c. [Commencement of our sum.]

Washington, July 1st, 1841.

The senate has been occupied for the two past days upon the details of the Bank Bill. The opposition members have not yet begun their attack upon the bill. Some of the Whigs seemed disposed to relieve them of that trouble by proposing ridiculous and absurd amendments—such as would effectually defeat the charter if they were adopted in it. The clause giving the Mother Bank the power to establish branches wherever the interest of the Government may require them, has not yet been reached. When it comes up, a proposition will be made to make the consent of the States necessary to the establishment of branches within them. This will give rise to considerable discussion, and its decision will materially effect the fate of the whole measure. The real or imaginary scruples of the President have thrown doubt and confusion into the Whig ranks, which would otherwise show a compact and solid column on this question.—Some think that Mr. Tyler will not sign a bill, unless the consent of the States is required, in which branches are sought to be established. I can hardly think those fears well founded—they have served, however, to embarrass the friends of the bill very much indeed. Would it not be well for our law givers to bear in mind, that there are seventeen millions of people in these United States, whose interest ought to have more weight with them than the scruples of all the Virginia politicians put together, from Ritchie upwards!

The bill to distribute the proceeds of the sales of the Public Lands, and to establish a pre-emption law has been in committee of the whole of the House all the week. It has undergone an elaborate discussion, by both friends and foes, and will be reported to-morrow or next day.

It is understood that Gen. Scott has been nominated to the Senate, as commander in chief of the army, vice Gen. Macomb, deceased.

A LOBBY MEMBER.

[CORRESPONDENCE OF THE BEE.]

Baltimore, July 1, 1841.

You will have perceived by the accounts published in the papers, and from my last, that the Frederick County Bank has recovered, at a large expense, a great portion of the funds abstracted from its vaults in May last. You will find in the "American" of to day, copied from the Frederick Examiner, a full statement of the manner in which it was recovered. That a person standing in such relation to the courts, as Mr. Wiley appears to be, should be concerned in compromising the robbery, is matter for wonder. It appears from publications made in various papers, that he was employed in a similar arrangement in a former extensive robbery of a Bank.

The weather is very oppressive at this time in this section of country—the thermometer yesterday, stood at 90 deg in the shade, and to-day promises to be scorching. The farmers in this vicinity have ceased creaking, and the prospects of fine crops are very flattering. I have seen some fine specimens of wheats from farms in our neighborhood, and the opinion is now pretty general, that the approaching harvest will yield abundantly.

MARKETS.

Flour—Sales of fresh ground standard brands of Howard street flour were made from stores yesterday at $5 62½. The demand has been fair for the last three days. City Mills flour, $5 85; Susquehanna, $5 75—stock light.

Grain—Wheat continues to advance—sales of Pennsylvania red, yesterday at $1 25 per bushel a $1 27—no Maryland wheats in market. Pennsylvania rye 60 a 62 cents. Corn, 50c. sales yesterday at 55 cents for white, and 53 for yellow.

Provisions—There has been a better inquiry for bacon—sales to a large extent have been made within a few days—the prices, same as my last.

Whiskey—[quote hhds. at 22 cents, and bris at 23 cents per gall.

[COMMUNICATED.]

Messrs. Editors,—On comparing the three last statements of the Banks in this city I find that the curtailment in the circulation of Bank notes has been as follows: between the 1st May and 5th June 350,747 between 5th June and 3d inst. 1,467,815

Total curtailment of circulation in two months, $1,818,562

being more than twenty-four per cent on the aggregate circulation on 1st May last. All those who have perused the slanders and disgusting falsehoods which have been daily distributed through the columns of a certain loathsome print, published in the State of Mississippi, will recollect that those pestilential emanations have invariably accused our bank directors of a desire to expand our circulation until the value of our bank notes should be reduced to the level of Union and other Mississippi bank notes. Accusations from such a source have, from the first, been considered indignantly as worthy the notice of respectable men, and they have therefore been suffered to enjoy that impunity which always attends those men and things which cannot be handled with due regard to the cleanliness of the other party. Time has shewn the Mississippi plunders and others how much value can be attached to mere assertion. The wholesale devastation of our merchants, in the same direction, will doubtless exhibit an equal departure from the truth when the planters shall have fully investigated the subject. No man of sense will place reliance on anything emanating from a source which has been detected in the perpetration of falsehood.

It was expected by those who understood the details of banking operations that the circulation of our banks would gradually decline after the bulk of produce had gone forward, and the purchase of exchange by the banks had consequently ceased. I am greatly surprised, however, to discover that a partial merit of circulation in one single month has reached the sum total parralleled sum of a million and a half, and think the propriety of this rapid curtailment may well be questioned. The argument used by some of the directors, who advocate this strange policy is that the Banks should be placed in readiness to resume on or before the 1st November next. Do they seriously think the resumption can be hastened by such means? If they do they are laboring under a fatal error.

In order to prepare our banks for specie payments we should so manage them as not to create any unnecessary pressure, because people cannot pay up their indebtedness to the banks unless they can dispose of their produce and merchandize at prices corresponding with those current elsewhere, and unless the debtors of the banks pay up, the latter cannot reduce their liabilities neither at present or subsequently. Let the late system of rapid curtailment be persisted in, and the consequence will be, that when the crops come to market, they will not command so much by 25 per cent, as they would under a judicious plan of bank management—one which would curtail the circulation only in proportion to the natural decline of business in the summer months—one based on that well known fact that a considerable amount of our circulation must be constantly absorbed in the State of Mississippi, and the aggregate amount should therefore be more extensive than formerly. Exchange on the north will always be taken from the banks in preference to specie: if, therefore, they engage so as to reduce the value of produce 25 per cent, the amount of exchange to be drawn will be one-fourth less, and their specie will be called for to supply the deficiency. Besides, the same cause will deprive our commission merchants and others of the means of paying their debts and thus convert into suspected much of that which would otherwise continue to be active, assets. I am satisfied that the foregoing view of this important subject is the only one which can be taken by men who have had experience in the operations of trade and banking. If I am wrong I sincerely hope some more experienced financier will discharge a duty of paramount importance to the public by unfolding the truth through the medium of your journal. No one is more anxious than myself to witness a permanent resumption of specie payment by the banks; and I submit therefore, with due regard to an imperative duty, remain silent when I perceive what I deem to be a departure by the banks from the only true mode of accomplishing that desirable effect. Without any effort at curtailment the circulation of the banks must necessarily decline, at least gradually, from this to 1st November next, as the amount of commercial paper afloat is small, almost beyond precedent, and few, if any houses require discounts on accommodation paper to an amount corresponding with that received at an earlier period of the season. Where, then, can one discover the necessity for a forced curtailment? Echo answers, "where."

THE BRANDYWINE.—This fine frigate left New York on the 30th June. It is supposed she has returned to her former station. Capt. BOLTON has been relieved of the command of his own vessel, and Capt. GESSNER appointed in his place.

UNFORTUNATE RESULT.—A new schooner, the Ariel, which had been built at Medford for a mercantile house at Boston, expressly for the Chinese trade, and, which was to have left for Macao on the 6th inst., made an experimental trip a few days since, of which the Boston Post speaks as follows:

"In order to test her sailing qualities, she yesterday spread her canvas to the breeze, and dared the dangers of the deep. The owners, we understand, together with several other gentlemen, were on board; and when she left the wharf, a large number of people had assembled to witness her performance. The breeze was steady, and like most other craft in fine weather she behaved nobly, and every mouth was filled with her praise. But, unfortunately, a sudden squall came sweeping along the bosom of the 'deep,' which bore our gallant barque on her beam ends, when she immediately filled and sunk. The pleasure schooner Breeze, which was in company, picked up all hands, who, we are happy to state, sustained no other injury than a good ducking. The Ariel's mast heads are just visible above water. She had about 20 tons of land on board, nearly all her water, wood, salt, provisions, cables, anchors and spare spars. She will doubtless be got up without damage."

JO SMITH DISCHARGED.—We have already mentioned that Jo Smith, the Mormon Leader, was arrested at Quincy, Ill., June 34, on the warrant of Governor Carlin, under a requisition from the Governor of Missouri. He was however brought up, on a writ of habeas corpus, before Calvin A. Warren, master in chancery for Adams County, and was ordered by Judge Douglass to be removed to Monmouth, in said county, (where the Court was then sitting) for examination. The case was argued before His Honor, on the 7th, when, after a patient hearing, decided that Jo should be released, chiefly on account of the insufficiency of the writ, and he was released accordingly.
