and cannot too highly commend the manner in which it is conducted, and the great and praise worthy atten tion of the gentlemen under whose direction it is con submitted, that from the institution of the Asylum to the date of the report, they have received 319 orphan children, of whom 48 have died, 65 have been placed out to learn different trades and professions, 119 hav been reclaimed by their friends, leaving in the Asylum 87. During the last year, many of these unfortunates were received while ill of the prevailing epidemics. and this fact, accounts for the number of deaths. The means of the Asylum are derived from the follow ing sources: Voluntary contributions and the annual appropriation from the State and the City. The Committee suggest, and in fact urgently recommend, an increase of the appropriation. From the statemen submitted to the Committee, it appears that funds are, at times, literally exhausted. While, at the same time, the Directors and the attending physicians, de-vote a great portion of their time to the institution

It will be useless for the Legislature to adopt an system for developing the resources of the State, unless rendered capable of estimating the advantages they have received. It would be better to abandon the improvement of our roads and water courses than to neglect the improvement of the minds of the rising genration, if it were necessary to take one or the other alternative.
