

CONSTITUTIONALITY OF THE BILL.

Mr. President.—We have received by Telegraph the speech of the two Houses of Congress on the 11th inst., in which they rejected the bill to prohibit the importation of slaves into the United States, and voted to appropriate $100,000 for the expenses of the trial of the cause of the Constitutionality of the bill.

Mr. President.—The Committee on Military Affairs reported a bill to prohibit the importation of slaves into the United States.

Mr. Clayton submitted a resolution, calling for a joint committee to consider the bill.

Mr. Davis submitted a resolution, calling for a joint committee to consider the bill.

Mr. Johnson moved to adjourn.

Mr. Johnson moved to adjourn.

The Senate then passed to the order of the day, to bring in the bill to prohibit the importation of slaves.

Mr. Johnson moved to adjourn his remarks, and took up the second division of his subject, viz., the conduct of the President in the prosecution of the war.

Mr. Johnson denounced the manner in which the war had been prosecuted. There had been a want of skill and prudence, with "a disregard of all the rules of war," to which the conduct of the war was due.

Mr. Johnson moved to adjourn.

The Senate then passed to the order of the day, to bring in the bill to prohibit the importation of slaves.

Mr. Johnson moved to adjourn.

Mr. Johnson moved to adjourn.