Official Gazette and City Paper,
PRINTED BY J. BAYON.

NEW-ORLEANS:
WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 4, 1835.

☞ An accident having happened to our new press, we are reluctantly compelled to issue our gazette in six instead of seven columns till it shall have been repaired. This misfortune is not our fault, and should be generously pardoned.

The eastern mail of yesterday brought Charleston journals of the 26th ult; but none north of Philadelphia. The Washington papers were of the 21st, brought by the steamboat from Norfolk to Charleston. Various projects of internal improvement seem fortunately to absorb all minor considerations. Even politics are at a discount, since the elections in Jersey, which are wholly in favor of Van Buren; in Pennsylvania, which give an aggregate of votes for the Whig candidates, and yet for the Democratic party; and in Ohio, where Van Burenism prevailed over Harrisonism.

THE BANKS OF LOUISIANA.

Desirous of affording the public authentic details of the present condition of the banking institutions of Louisiana, and sametime humbly endeavoring to benefit those institutions, we sought and have obtained the last general statement made by most of them for their stockholders.

The Louisiana State Bank was chartered in 1818, with a capital of 2 millions; but its charter was successively amended in the years '19, '20, '22 and '25. This bank has peculiar privileges. The charter has no limitation; its notes are a legal tender for all debts due to the state; it is the deposit bank of the state revenues; it can discount long paper at nine per cent interest, and renew notes receivable; and it can increase its capital to 4 millions. The following statement furnished us by Mr. Ralfe, the cashier, is dated 31st July 1835.

	Bank Dr.

It will be seen that the specie of that bank exceeds its currency more than 350,000 dollars.

The Bank of Louisiana was chartered in 1824, with a capital of 3 millions; and is to continue till 1870.—The faith of the state is pledged for half its stock, which pays no bonus. The following statement was published on the 28th July 1835, and kindly furnished us by the cashier, Mr. Magoffin.

Tho' the last dividend of that bank at 4 per cent amounted to 159,863 dollars, a dividend was reserved for next half year amounting to 90,000. The balance of the January half year was $457,165-19; and of the July $376,643-75.

The Bank of the Consolidated Association of Planters of Louisiana was chartered in 1827, for the benefit of our planters who alone are allowed to be subscribers. The banking capital is 2 millions and a half, to be raised by means of a loan on property mortgaged by each and every subscriber; for which all are individually responsible to the banking company, and the company in solido responsible for the amount loaned by bonds issued. The charter is to continue till 1842; and the bank is permitted to possess by mortgage all kinds of property; to trade in all kinds of bills; and to discount to double the amount of capital. Some of these privileges were but lately conceded; and the bank has not yet had time to experience their benefits. We have looked thro the bylaws of this banking company; and were much pleased with the orderly arrangements made to give full effect to the charter. From Mr Miltenberger, we have obtained a statement of the bank on the 30th October, 1835.

This bank has not fully gone into operation, as it was established on the basis of real property or personal security—a principle almost new in our banking institutions, although perhaps the most eligible basis that can be devised. The Rotschilds have this year established a bank in Holland on this principle, for the northwestern parts of the European continent; and there is no doubt of their being successful. In this country, banks like the Consolidated Association of Planters should be very successful; as the property on which they may have secured mortgage is annually enhanced in value; and the subscribers who have mortgaged such property on loans may be considered individually responsible for the debts of this bank to the amount of their shares of stock: so that they are jointly and individually responsible by real estate or other securities; and these other securities give additional solvency to the banking institution.

The City Bank was chartered in 1831, to continue till 1860, with a capital of two millions to be raised by subscription; and to have two branches. This bank is privileged to charge six per cent discount on notes less than four months; and eight per cent for a longer time on all loans on mortgage or pledge. It is to allow interest on deposits. It pays an annual bonus to the state of $2,000 on the profits of the parent bank; and when its full capital is subscribed, it is bound to loan at least $300,000 on mortgage of real property at eight per cent: yet meantime it is bound to lend the state when required $100,000 at five per cent. The following statement was made 1st September, 1836.—

The Union Bank was chartered in 1839, to continue for twenty-five years; with a capital of seven millions to be raised by a loan, for which the faith of the state is pledged, and she is therefore to have a standing credit of $500,000 bearing interest. The loan was to be raised on mortgaging real estate. The bank has eight branches, which with the parent bank may loan on all immovable property, on notes and bills of exchange; the loans made renewable, at seven per cent interest. Mr Perrault, the cashier of this bank, politely had the following statement made purposely for us, up to the 15th of October, 1835:—

The Mechanics' and Traders' Bank was chartered in 1833, to continue till 1863, for the benefit of mechanics and traders, who are alone permitted to hold shares of its stock. This bank has two branches and is permitted the usual banking privileges, except not to own any real estate, but such as is essential in its own transactions of discount or loan. It pays an annual bonus of $3,000. The following statement was made on the 30th of June, 1835:—

The profits of the above bank for the six months ending June 30th, were $122,549 50, which produced a dividend of four per cent, allowing an increase of the reserved fund. It is expected that most of the protested bills shall eventually be recovered.

The New-Orleans Canal and Banking Company was chartered in 1831, till 1870; with a capital of four millions to be raised by subscription. The company are endowed with the usual banking privileges. The only state bonus required is the construction of a six miles canal of 60 feet width and of depth sufficient to admit vessels having 6 feet water; with a shell road parallel to it, and breakwaters, etc: for which they are privileged to charge a handsome toll both on canal and road, which must bring them in a pretty revenue yearly. The canal and road with all their appurtenances are to be vested in the state in 1865; and the state is empowered at any time to require a loan of $600,000 at six per cent. There is a singular section superadded to the charter, empowering the mayor to act on a subject wholly foreign to this company; beautifully illustrating the methodical sons of our statesmen.

So favorable were the exchange operations of this bank during the first half of this year—amounting to 1,400,000—that the auditing committee recommended that the dividend of 4 per cent should be paid by the agents in London on the stock held there, at the rate of 8½ per cent premium of exchange. But the hurricane annulled this step. The same committee recommend the real estate of the company to be sold early next season; and the proceeds with the profits of the sinking fund to be applied to liquidating the enormous and unforeseen cost of the canal, which before being completed will amount to 850,000 dollars.

The Commercial Bank was chartered in 1833, for the purpose of supplying New Orleans with water.—The capital is 3 millions; and the charter to continue 40 years if the city corporation shall have purchased the waterworks in 35 years; but otherwise, only 35. The company have the power by a wholesale clause 'to transact any banking business;' and they have singularly the power of [illegible] by a majority of [illegible] books to a joint committee [illegible] legislature during the past session. They have never published any statement of their affairs, except of the waterworks.

The Citizens' Bank was also chartered in '32, with a capital of 12 millions to be raised by loan: but the bank has not commenced operations. The terms of the charter are similar to those of the Consolidated Association of Planters bank; but this company has not the faith of the state pledged by bonds, as the other, for its capital. We have been informed the commissioners lately sent to Europe have actually effected the loan, on condition that the faith of the state shall be pledged as security for the amount loaned. This should be granted; and will be demanded at the next session of the legislature.

The Bank of Orleans was chartered in 1811, to continue till 1847. The capital is $300,000. Its banking privileges are restricted, although it may discount for any length of time, at 6 per cent interest. When its charter was renewed in '23, it had to pay a bonus of 25,000; and was therefore exempted from all taxes.—It keeps its transactions secreted from the public: and not even its stockholders have the privilege of inspecting more than the minutes of the board of directors.

Two of the banks chartered during the present year—the Gaslight and Carrolton—have partially commenced operations: but are not yet thoroughly under way. The capital of the former is 6 millions; of the latter 2½; both are taken, and will proceed under favorable auspices.

The Atchafalaya railroad and banking company was also chartered this year; but its charter must be amended by the next legislature, before it can go into operation.

The French question has unhappily been again agitated in the eastern journals, as if wars or rumors of war were afloat. Although the question is not definitely adjusted, we entertain hopes that it shall be fraternized amicably without any collision between France and the United States. The amendment of General Vallee does not require an apology, but a explanation of remarks affirmed to be offensive to the honor and dignity of France. This explanation can easily be given by the president in his next annual message to Congress, without compromising the dignity and stern independence of this country; and without making any apology or explanation whatever due to France, yet having the effect required by the amendment. And probably General Jackson will do this, and no more: no more should be done: and no more is required. Congress will sit still early long during the coming session, to receive the record of such an explanation as conveyed; and to act accordingly.

The Mayoralty for 1836 is a beautiful miniature fully adopted for the boudoir or drawing room to which it is specially bound, exhibiting a goddess of flowers of the flower from which it takes its name. Its functions thirteen engravings, generally better executed than in any other of our annuals: and what is more laudable, they are all done by native artists, and mostly on native subjects. The perspective in the landscapes is not however generally executed.

The reading contents are by Paulding, Simms, Sands, McIlwin, Hoffman, Patterson, and among the lady contributors are Sigourney, Gould, Ellet, Sedgwick. The accomplished editor Mr Herbert of the American Monthly Magazine, and author of "The Brothers," has himself contributed largely. His "Legend of Sleepy Hollow" and "Fate of Pompey" are rather tame imitations of Hoffman's Night on the Prairie: but his sketches possess considerable interest. Col. Simms's "Old Maid" is more than mediocrity: and Paulding's "Picture" is a vivid sketch. The poetry is of a superior cast.

This annual is published by Bancroft of New York; and sold by their agent in Congress street. I owe an agreeable present from young gentlemen of the Indies.

We cheerfully publish the following correspondence between our citizens and the Parisian gentlemen in consequence of the noble resolutions adopted at a public meeting on the subject of the abolitionists, recommending legislative interference on the part of the northern states, and determining to stand shoulder by shoulder with their southern brethren, whenever required. The correspondence is addressed to Mr Peters and to Mr M'Michael, both influential and respectable among their fellow citizens. The letter of the former was published in the Paris Spectator, and we have been permitted to publish the other.

New Orleans, Oct. 1, 35.

M M'MICHAEL, Esq. PHILADELPHIA

Sir—An association of several hundred of our citizens organized, with a view to protect and secure to the lawful owners of the Abolitionists in this city, was last night held in evening, when the gratifying intelligence reached them, of the result of the proceedings in your city, of which you were conspicuous.

The patriotic, manly and temperate character of the resolutions and the entire approbation of every sentiment, while the fraternal regard evinced towards the people of the south, elicited the most enthusiastic applause. Among the pleasing duties, assigned to the undersigned at this meeting of my fellow citizens, to convey to you the enclosed resolution, adopted unanimously after an account of the proceedings of your meeting has been read.

The action of our northern brethren on a question so vitally dear to the interests of the south, had so much expected and had even anticipated the opinion they would pass; but the spirit and the manner in which they have come forward, and the will to depend on ourselves to counteract the incendiary schemes of those deluded fanatics.—Happily we have now the most unequivocal evidence, that the strong arm of the north is with us; and that a fraternal affection—the result of early associations and mutual interests—so essential to the preservation of our beloved Union, exists as warmly in the hearts of our brethren of Philadelphia as it does in our own.

I have the honor to communicate to you the enclosed resolutions, as the expression of the sentiments of the citizens of New Orleans, and to please to accept for yourself the assurance of my high consideration.

Your most obedient servant,
SAML J PETERS, Chairman.

At a meeting of a large number of the citizens of New Orleans, convened for the purpose of organizing themselves into an association, for the protection of their peace and their rights, against the insidious attempts of the abolitionists, the regular business of the association being concluded,

On D J Rogers's reviewing the proceedings of a public meeting held at Philadelphia, on the 21st ult. convened at the call of the young men of that city, opposed to the incendiary movements of the abolitionists.

When, on motion of James H. Caldwell, Esq., it was unanimously

Resolved, That we, in common with our fellow-citizens of the south, and entertaining with them the most devoted attachment to the Union, we ardently reciprocate the fraternal spirit that pervades their resolutions; and should it ever be necessary we will be found as ready to defend their rights, as we are to protect our own.

SAML J PETERS, Chairman.
John Hagan, jr Secretary.

Philadelphia, Sept 29, 1835.

SAMUEL J PETERS, Esq NEW-ORLEANS.

Dear Sir—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 9th inst, covering a resolution adopted at a meeting held in New Orleans.

The sentiments of kindness and good-will expressed in the resolution referred to, and contained in your accompanying letter, are fully deserved by the citizens of Philadelphia. Extensive means of observation justify me in assuring that the mass of this community is wholly free from any disposition to interfere with the domestic relations of the south: and the strong denunciation of the incendiary movements of the fanatics, unanimously made at the great meeting recently held in this city—which may be regarded as clearly indicating public opinion on this subject—must satisfy all that, we are determined neither to encourage, nor tolerate, any such among us.

Convinced, as I am, that my fellow-citizens entertain the right feelings, and intend to pursue a proper course of action on this momentous subject, it gives me much pleasure to perceive that our southern brethren duly appreciate our motives and conduct. The fraternal spirit which animates the resolution adopted in your city, and which I have found generally pervading the newspapers of the south, furnishes gratifying demonstration that our labors here in Philadelphia, have not been in vain; and leads us to indulge the hope, that the atrocious measures which have roused our common indignation, instead of disturbing the harmony of our intercourse, as at first they seemed to threaten, may ultimately prove the indirect means of binding more closely the ties of our happy Union.

With sentiments of the highest consideration and respect, I am, dear sir,
Your obed't servant,
Morton M'Michael.

A fracas took place in Salem on Wednesday, between Le. Wilkinson of the former place, which the latter's friend was said what bruised. In se us that Miller introduced W Jenkins into company, at Salem, 2 years ago, but upon his return, recently, refused to recognize him as a gentleman, on account of some alleged misconduct. Wilkinson, armed with a cane, two pistols and a dirk, undertook to make himself a gentleman by assaulting Miller in the street. He was arrested, taken to the Police Court, and from thence to jail, where he now is, for want of bail, to the amount of $1,000.

Wilkinson has since obtained bail, and has been set at liberty.
