The op rion of the Supreme Court, as delivered by Bullard, in the case of the seizure of the mail-boats, revers and fields Water decision, will be found in our columns. The Citizens' bank-bill was not acted dafinitiv by

The Bank is secretly and verily at work in every city of the Union, and by reason of un control over a few individuals, upon whom its lavish favars have been beste wed, its biddings and done by barely indicating there and threatening punishment in case of discbedience. Thus it is: there is a perfect understanding b

But the provisions of law particularly relied on by the appellers, is contained in the 9th section of the act above mentioned, which is in the following words: "That if any person shall, knowingly and wilfolly obstrict or seturit the passage of the mail, or of any driver of carrier, or of any horse or carriage, carrying the same, he isks I, upon conviction of every such officies, pay a fine not exceeding one hundred dolars."

ery such officies, pay a fine not exceeding one numerou non-ital.

These are believed to be the only existing onactments of Congress on the subject. The question therefore is, whether the secure made by the sheriff was a violation of this statute and tortious? If so, the party can gain no advantage by it, and the court below was correct in ordering the release. The arguments of ecounsel as well as the statement of facts, pre-sent the question in a broader light, to wite Whether the court is to infer from this act of Congress, upon fair princi-ples of construction, that Congress intended to exempt from seizure under process issued from State courts, any vehicle or vess-I employed in the transportation of the mail in pur-suance of contracts with the post-office department, at a time when the mail is not on bord and, the vehicle or wessel

Perhaps not because it would be a peace able taking if the kiriver should appose him, but if he should find his horse which had seen stolen in the stable of the contractors at one of the terribility of the mail rotte, the peaceable taking of the horse would not, in our epinion, be a violation of the set of Congress. "The driver being in debt, says the Judge of the rest of Congress and one not ebstruct the passage of the mail." It is not easy to precive here a seal carrier arrive as the end. Here we will have a seal carrier arrive as the end. Here we will have a seal carrier arrive as the end of his route, and after delivering his mail could be practed from arrest for debt under the provisions of this act of Congress. "It'r We have on good authority that the merchants of New York have it under advisement whether or not they shall suspend the payment of their duty bonds."

The merchants of New York, we have no doubt, will feel obliged to the Philadelphia Herald and some other papers of that city if they will confine themselves more exclusively to their own community. Those papers have hid "good authority" for making a great many false statements disreputable to the character and standing of the merchants of this city. The merchants of New York will never advise "whether or not" they shall meet their engagements.

THE REMEDY.

As soon as the Rethachids, the Barings, and other Capitalists of England and Europe, learn the low state of our stocks of every description, they will send over orders for large investments. Our own capitalists, will then regret that they have played of so long.

It is well known abroad that this a country growing rapidly in population, and still more rapidly in wealth;—that it is full of industry, enterprise; and intelligence, and inexhaustible in recourses. The public faith and credit of every State in the Union, as well as of the United States, stands on the armount, at a moderate interest, for public improvement, can easily and quickly be negociated.

Under these considerations, we are dependent upon no bank or set of banks for our prospectly. A temporary demany yet affect the public confidence and commercial credit.

But the storm has spent its fury: Calm and sunshine will soon sude ed.

Our country is not now in the situation in which it was timable man, but betrays a sort of satisfaction at the pre-sumed death of another who is probably alive and merry. The sadded in the intelligence from South America, was a Colonel Francis Hull, formerly an officer in the British army, and the author of a tour through Ca-nada and the United States, which was written in quite a liberal and gentlementy spirit. He afterwards entered in-to the service of the Republic of Columbia, and nublished a tract concerning that country, dedicated to his friend Je-remy Betham, which comprises much interesting informa-tion in a small compass. The death of Basil Hall—"fa-med for sundry liberage and the country and med for sundry libels upon the country and its institu-tions" is yet to be chronicled; and we have Christian fee
