MISCELLANY.

(From the Portsmouth State Herald.) The sea Tiger .- The sealing schr. Pacific. which arrived at this port a few weeks since, brought home the skull and hide of a Sea Tiger, taken near the South-Georgia Islands. This brave tenant of the deep measured seven feet in length and girted 31 when killed. The general shape of the head is like that of the common seal, with the exception that is more elongated, and the sockets of the eves deeper and broader. It measures afteen and a quarter inches from the extremity of the nose to the great hole of the occipital bone. The length of the lower jaw from the chin to the point of articulation with the upper jawbone is eleven and shalf inches. A straight line drawn from one articulating process to the other, measures 6 inches. The number of teeth is thirty two-four of which are tusks. The largest tusk is an inch and a quarter long, and one inch in circumference at its base. In each jaw, there are ten grinders, which, immediately after emerging from their sockets, are divided into three distinct conical portions, the central division being more than half an inch long, and the two latter ones the fourth of an mich —all terminating with sharp smooth points. The skin is covered with fine, thick, short hair, of a grey color on the back, and spotted with black and white on the abdomen. It has short, strong flippers. The sea tiger moves with survered at a distance, he gets upon the windward side, lies upon his back, and in this attitude suffers himself to ride upon the billows with his Court for the benefit of his Creditors. It is or-head slightly elevated above his body—keeping dered that a meeting of said Creditors take place his large dark, vigilant eye steadily fixed upon at the office of W, Christy Esq. not. pub. on the ill-fated object of his pursuit; and as soon as he has floated sufficiently near to secure it. he turns upon his belly, cleaves the billows with er, and in the mean time all judicial proceeding astonishin? swiftness, and the next moment he is against his person and estate are stayed—Charles seen plunging into water with a penguin which F. Daunoy Esq. is appointed to represent the weights forty or sixty pound in his capacious absent Creditors, jaws. He is an animal of undaunting courage and shrewdness.

The crew of the Pacific were frequently chased by sea tigers while they were cruising in outs. On one occasion, when two of the agen where at a considerable distance from the shore and from the schooner, a tiger nearly twenty feet long and six in circumference, discovered their situation and immediately pursued within ten or twelve feet he leaped for the boat, at the same time exposing him and the boat. rage; but failing to get into the boat, he made a furious attempt to upset it. At this moment one of the party todged a musket ball in his body; but this only served to augment the animal's tury, and he again attempted to spring into the boat and had it not been that he received a severe blow from a lance, would have succeeded. He still kept up battle, with unbated courage and violence; repeated his efforts, and seemed resolved that neither the power nor the weapons of man should prevail against him; and it was not till thin him that he was overcome. At another time some of the crew were three miles from the schooner in their boat, when they saw a large tiger following in their wake. He kept at a distance from the boat and betrayed on his forehead, with a Spanish brand. no disposition to annoy the party, which circumstance induced them, at that time unacquainted with the habits of the sea tiger, to pursue him; but they soon found that their igmorance of the character of their enemy had betrayed them into imminent danger, and that they were likely to pay dear for their temerity, for the tiger prepared himself for the battle, and gave chase to the crew, who immediately pulled for the ressel; and it was with extreme difficulsy that they succeeded in keeping him out of the boat or from upsetting it. Some of the sailors tasted the milk of a sea tiger which they killed, and found it excellent.

It has been supposed that the sea tiger and the walrus are the same; but they differ in several particulars, such as the number, size, aliane, and relative position of the teeth, and in the form of the head, which latter in the walrus bears a strong resemblance to that of the hu-

OPELLOUSAS, July 9. Robbery .- We have just learned that a Cavailade of Mules in number about 40, together with a few head of horses, lately brought in from the Spanish province, was taken from their enclosure on Monday last, (4th inst.) They were for sale, under the agency of Mr. M. Galban of
