[PRIVATE CORRESPONDENCE OF THE BEE.]

Washington, July , 1842.

In Senate, quite an interesting debate incidentally arose on a motion made by Mr. Woodbury to instruct the Committee on the Judiciary to inquire into the expediency of repealing so much of the act of 1837 as authorizes the appointment of commissioners under the bankrupt law. Mr. Simmons opposed the motion, on the ground that the law, by the appointment of commissioners, had conferred the power of granting certificates of discharge, and that the power could not be withdrawn from them. Mr. Woodbury replied that the power of granting certificates of discharge was not conferred by the law, but was merely incidental to the duties of the commissioners. Mr. Clayton argued that the power was conferred by the law, and that the motion was unconstitutional, as it proposed to take away vested rights. Mr. Buchanan doubted the constitutionality of the bankrupt law, and thought the motion premature, but he considered the question of the constitutionality of the law as now before the Supreme Court, and should therefore vote against the motion. Mr. Huntington, Mr. Bagby, and others, discussed the question at length, and finally the motion was withdrawn, on the suggestion of Mr. Clayton, that the Committee on the Judiciary be requested to report on such day as they should be ready for the consideration of the question. The Senate then proceeded to the consideration of the resolutions of inquiry offered by Mr. Allen, calling on the Secretary of State for a copy of the reasons of the President for signing the said bill.

After some debate the resolution was adopted.

The consideration of the President's veto message was then resumed.

Messrs. Smith, Wise and Payne defended the course of the President and the veto power.

Messrs. Howard, Underwood, and Arnold, took the contrary side.

At a late hour, a motion to adjourn was carried by a vote of 100 to 51.

The debate will be resumed on Monday.

☞ Our National Anniversary was commemorated yesterday by the military companies and various associations in a spirited manner, and with quite a fine display.

Emigration Extraordinary.—It is computed that from the 1st of April up to the 30th June, no less than 41,712 passengers arrived at New York. During one day last week the arrivals were 2926.

OHIO AND HENRY CLAY.

A great convention of the Whigs of Ohio was held at Lebanon on the 10th of last month. The number present was estimated at from 5 to 8000. The delegations of the different towns came, as of old, with their bands of music, their flags and banners thrown to the breeze; and numerous as they were, they all found comfortable quarters, latch-string in abundance being outside the doors.

Governor Corwin made a great speech, and was followed by many others, one of whom, Mr. Schenck, of Dayton, in concluding his speech, said he was entrusted by the Whigs of Montgomery county to propose that Henry Clay be nominated for the presidency; and he called upon the Whigs of Hamilton, Butler, Warren, Clinton, Miami, Green, Clarke, and other counties represented, to respond their hearty Amen, which was done with a united voice.

Maine.—At a Whig convention, held at Portland, Edward Kent having declined a nomination, Ben. Edward Robinson, formerly a member of Congress was selected as candidate for governor. Spirited resolutions, expressive of the feelings of the Whigs of Maine, were unanimously adopted. The honorable Henry Clay, of Kentucky, was recommended as the Whig candidate for president of the United States.—His name was announced amidst great applause.—Some very able speeches were made, on the present position of political affairs.

Important to the Locofocos.—The Louisville Journal states that the old coon of the Hermitage is still relentless towards Mr. Calhoun, and growls tremendously whenever Mr. C.'s name is mentioned in connection with the presidency. We mention this for the benefit of the small locofoco fiens, who of late have unwittingly shown a disposition to support Mr. Calhoun for the presidency.

Philadelphia, July 2.

A THUNDER STORM.

About seven o'clock last evening, our vicinity was visited by a perfect down-pour of rain, which in a short time made Dock-street near the appearance of a river—from one side to the other being a perfect sheet of water. The poor cab-horses looked like pictures of patience, as they stood "the peltings of the pitiless storm, knee deep in water, while the drivers were fain to seek the shelter of the neighboring houses. We noticed a deserted barrow loaded with oranges, which stood exposed to the imminent danger, the water leaping and dashing in a most unwelcome manner, as if they looked upon them as their lawful prey. It was a perfect deluge in miniature. We are sorry to know that much damage was done by the overflowing of the cellars along the streets.

Steamers between Havre and New-York.—The French government have addressed a communication to that of the United States, representing that His Majesty intends establishing a line of steamers between Havre and this city, either by temporarily placing on the route steamers belonging to the Royal Navy, or by causing new ones to be built. But thinking it might be agreeable to the government of the United States to take a part in the arrangement—such placing on the tide three or four steamers of 450 horse power—it is desirous to know, to be made accordingly. Mr. Webster, in behalf of the United States government, replies, that hitherto this government has limited its construction of steamboats to such as are intended for military purposes; but he is directed by the president to say, that the communication of the French minister will be respectfully submitted to Congress for its consideration, and for such proceedings as they may see fit to adopt thereon.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

The National Intelligencer of this morning says—"It gives us pleasure to state, for the information of our readers, that every indication assures us that the majorities in both Houses of Congress are determined to persevere, in the face of every obstacle, in the discharge of their duty, and to pass, before the session is brought to a close, a Tariff of duties and imposts such as shall be calculated to meet the wants of the Government and wishes of the people. The vote in the House of Representatives yesterday, upon the question of receiving a proposition to fix upon a day for final adjournment, shows that a majority of that body will not at present consent to entertain any proposition to that effect, or even allow it to be made the subject of consideration. When we reflect upon the advance of the season, the oppressive heat which now prevails, and the great anxiety of the members, after so long a absence, to be at home and about their private affairs, this determination proves the constancy and firmness of purpose, which can hardly be too much applauded.—Baltimore American, July 2.

Mouton's majority,..... 530

The parishes to be heard from are St. Landry and Calcasieu, Natchitoches, Claiborne, Catahoula, Caldwell, Union, Caddo and Ouachita. They will probably in the aggregate increase Mouton's majority. We shall publish full returns as soon as received.

The legislature is very close, with a good prospect of a whig majority on joint ballot. Thus far the whigs have elected 10 in Orleans, 1 in St. Bernard, 1 in Jefferson, 1 in St. Charles, 1 in St. John, 2 in St. James, 1 in Ascension, 1 in Assumption, 3 in Lafourche, 1 in Terrebonne, 1 in W. Baton Rouge, 2 in East Feliciana, 1 in St. Tammany, 1 in St. Mary, 1 in Avoyelles, and 1 in Catahoula—29 in all or one less than half the House. In St. Landry we have carried part if not all the ticket, and have a fair chance for one in Ouachita and one in Natchitoches. We think the probability is strongly in favor of a whig House. The Senate is, whig 9, to 7—and Down's district to be heard from, which, if it re-elects him, will make it 9 to 8.

☞ The veto of Capt. Tyler on the "Little Tariff Bill," has produced infinite confusion and uncertainty in regard to the collection of the customs. We perceive by the New York papers, that the circular of the general government is far from satisfying the mercantile community of the power of the executive to return to the revenue bill of 1833, which levies an indiscriminate tax of 20 per cent. on all articles subject to duty; and that no duties will be paid into the Custom house under these instructions, except under protest. In anticipation of the present state of things, considerable quantities of merchandize had been exported for the benefit of drawback, which are now about to be re-entered. A number of large importing merchants have taken legal advice on the matter, and deny the right of Mr. Tyler to return to any system of collection, without previous legislation. The section in the compromise act requiring "that the duties to be paid by law on goods, wares and merchandize, shall be assessed upon the value thereof at the port where the same shall be entered, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law," has given rise to great discussion and uncertainty. No laws to this effect have been passed, and how can the section be carried into effect without legislation prescribing its mode of operation? The whole subject is involved in confusion, from which we can see no mode of escaping.

☞ The explosion on board the steamboat Edna at the mouth of the Missouri proves to have been one of the most destructive we have yet had to record.—Sixty-three persons were scalded of whom, fifty-three have died. Some two or three were blown into the river and saved, and two or three are missing. The sufferers are principally Germans.

The Concordia Intelligencer—hitherto a neutral paper—has raised the flag of Henry Clay, and will hereafter do battle under that glorious champion of whig principles.

☞ The clerk of the steamboat Alexander Scott has our thanks for late St. Louis papers.
