of meeting hereafter be 11 o'clook, instead of 12.

Mr Swift suggested that it would be better to make this the rule after Monday next; and in that form the this the rule after Monday next; and in that form the resolution was agreed to.

On motion of Mr. Roane, Saturday next was an apart for the consideration of bills relating to the Dis-trict of Culsimbia.

Private bills occupied the time of the sitting until one o clock, when the senate passed to the consideration of Mr. Crittenden's biff, to present the interference of federal officers in elections.

Mr. Strange of N. C., then took the floor, and spoke at great length in defence of the principles and doctrines of the report, in reply to Messrs. Crittenden and Rives; and against the bill. After he finished, Mr. Buchanan rose and intimated his wish to sprak on the subjects which had been presented; and moved the adjournment. He has the floor for to moreowe

FRANCE.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—We have received the Paris peners of Friday and Saturday. The most important part of their contents is the report of the proceedings in the chamber of deputies on the preceding day, when the reporter of the committee appointed to draw up the address produced this, document, which was read to the deputies by M. Dagin, the president. Thence and tomper of this state paper, for such it must be considered, as well worthy of being studied by those who deem the progress of events and epinisms in France to be a majeter of interest. There is scarcely a paragraph in this sifetiess which does not travesty as well as contravene its counterpart in the royal speech. of life, to any reaching of grow, In Livergood the iose of life, to any reaching of grow, In Livergood the iose of life, to any reaching of grow, In Livergood the loss of life, to any reaching of grow to be any the search of the companies of the life of the deaths in Livergood, and as for those at that that number, large as its, will not include the whole of the deaths in Livergood, and as for those as and the autrounding district, very little was anown.
