TALE UNION-IT MOST SE PRESERVED. BATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 11, 1836

For A snortene of the friends of good order and harmon among all classes of our citizens, whether Louisiamian autive Americans or naturalized citizens, will be held at the saloon of the office of this journal, this evening at 7 o'clock to pass resolutious promoting followship and union with all in the union! Ye are aware that a meeting was conadopted, that it is politic, natural and just that native as bonds by the mayor and corporation to the subscriber born Americans should be appointed to office in preference to foreigners.' Ye are aware that by the invidious epithet of foreigners, those at the meeting meant persons greworks, under certain orcumatances, and seavering the born in other hads, who had adopted America as their home; and had become naturalized citizens of the soun-

APPEAL TO AMERICANS.

Ye are sware that your glorious revolution was compassed and completed by and with the aid of such persens so designated. Ye are aware that after this the most eventful struggle that ever agitated the civilized world, when we consider its causes, eircumstances and consequences—that the eager of that period in their wisdom adopted a constitution as the fundamental and su preme law of the land; and in their gratitude and policy resolved as one of its provisions to invite similar foreigners to add to the population, stability and prosperity of the country; and that the terms of the contract were that after a specified period of residence and avowal of cita menship, they should be equally entitled to the same zights, immunities and privileges as native Americans.

Ye are aware that the terms of this contract have been faithfully fulfilled by all foreigners becoming adopted or naturalized citizens—that they have brought to this and manners would be worthy of a place in Lacon. We have country their arts and sciences: their mechanic and in-Followtual resources: their property, and minds thorough Iv imbued with the spirit of republican institutions; -tha under the faith of a solemn and sucred contract, they have come here resolved to embark their lives, liberty and property in common with natives, for the general welfare and defence of the country.

And after having so solemnly pledged the sacred faith of the nation to your adopted brethren, will ye new turn sound on them; and act the base part of a fratricise? Is rably known to the literary public, by his Life of a salior. seither 'politic, natural or just' that ye should falsify that contract; and violate the supreme law of the land ! Was it for such a resolution as this that Stewart bled, or 🖶 Montgomery fell? for such a resolution as this that La. favette succored you in your utmost scedi and Pulaski shed his blood in your defence? Shades of departed heroes! if it be permitted you ever to visit your adopted country, behold here the degeneracy of those for whom ye fought and conquered, for whom ye bled and died! Is this the gratitude, is this the faith ye expected to find for your offspring and compatriots?

Native Americans! reflect calmly and dispassionately Recur to the brief yet eventful history of your country; and point to what dark page of it, you will find recorded of a sunte is his sele object.' Let us then 'gree herribly a that any, that one adopted critizen ever flinched from your ghastly smile at the creation of the coquette; for we will side in the hour of peril or of danger. Was there ever have her 'mad by fits; by starts too, wild.' an Arnold or a Burr among their ranks? Was there one of them that could not as fairly and feelingly have asserted at his dying moments—as were the last words of the illustrious naturalized citizen, ALEXANDER HABILTOR -thank Heaven, I never was a traitor to my adopted country.

And if ye cannot, is it either natural, politie or jus that (like vipers) ye should now turn on your affiliated citizens, and sting them with the venous of prejudicial preference?

No fellow citizens! Those foreigners have some here re Bolived to speed their lives and fortumes; resolved to contribute to defend your rights, while they participate in your prospects; to defend your rights, while they share in your privileges. Fulfil your part of the prudential centract; and they will sobly redeem theirs. For the home and hospitality afforded them here, they have pledged their lives, their liberty and their property. There is not an honorable eitizen among them who would not with heart, sour and strength, respond to the noble lenst of filial enthusiaem uttered by Mr Atsustin, on the last day of the session of the legislature. If am not indeed (he said) an American born. I was born in the isle of St Domingo; but I came to this country when I was only 4 years old. Hare I solved to spead their lives and fortunes; resolved to contri to this country when I was only 4 years old. Here I found a home; here I enjoyed hospitality. I was eduly, it is annually discretionary with them whether they return to the world or continue in their order. Before the I became intimate with the laws and instituti of the country; and identified with her citizens. Their objects are my objects; and their prospects mine also. Yes, I feel in me a spirit of gratitude for the home and hospitality afforded, that can equal or exceed the spirit of nativity—to reverence, to love, to defend the

ORLEANS DEAIRING COMPANY. -- Today we publish the a chartering the company for draining the swamp, and me forating the lands between the city and lake. The objects of this company are of the most landable nature; the plan practicable; the prospects lucrative or profitable. It is earnestly to be hoped that the stock of this company will attract espitalists, who will thus secure an ample divi dend for their outlay; and materially promote the salubrity, population and prosperity of New Orleans.

GARLISHTS.-The contract with the gaslight banking company for lighting the city and its faubourgs with gas will demand the early and serious consideration of the city council. That an engagement for this purpose should b made, there can be but one opinion in the affirmative.

On the day of printing the charter we had bezarded some remarks on the subject: not certainly for the purpose it making an attack upon the company, as has been illiberally and onjustly asserted; but to attract public attention to i The charter gives an exclusive privilege to this company to construct gasworks and contract for gaslights within New Orleans and its faubourgs, and the city of Lafayetteduring the continuance of said charter. Now however anx. ous we may be to promote the objects of this company; however highly we may respect Mr Calowell for the manifest benefits he has conferred on our community and city in his 'sock and buskin' profession, his introducing gaslights and his conduct in the city council, -we owe a duty to the public which must hever be forfeited. We love Caldwell well; but we love the public welfare more. This exclusive monopoly has partially prostrated the city corporation at the foot of this company; and we are therefore induced to appeal to the magnanimity and public spiri of Caldwell as chief of that company, to see that justice be done to the city; so far as his influence can prevail. It is true that the company is enjoined under a penalty to light gratuitously the city hospital;—as soon as possible to lay of the French with the cross of the Legion of Honor. vines in all directions, where contracts will defray exponces,-that the contract for lighting proposed by the corporation must be accepted at the lowest price, and street lighted wherever designated, under a penalty of 500 dollars.

Deduct then the 30,000 feet enjoined (not for lighting the streets of the city, but for any use whatever), and we have nearly 900,000 fee emaining, or almost 520 out of the 530 miles stated. By this it would appear that the specified quantity of pipes wholly or very nearly faid already by the company.

If this statement is erreneous, we shall be glad to have i settilled; but if it is correct, our former opinion is substan inted. Tot again we aver that we mean no attack on any-If the clause is obligatory on the company to accept the proposale made by the city council, no doubt the hould immediately take advantage of it to make an digible contract;-but certainly not an unworthy advantage to

The mains re-jorners—In e death of the wife of the Chippewa Chief has really been of too melancholy and tragic a cast for the mimic drama. The anecdotes told of the party are very interesting. The poor female was baptised on the morning previous to her death (Sunday,) and had christian burial on Tuesday. The frantic sorrow of the chief at his less was of the wildest extravarow of the chief at his less was of the wildest extrava-gance; and imputing it to exposure to the weather since their arrival in England, he would, without a qualm, have sacrificed the individual who brought them to this coun-try, had he not been concealed from his search. The Indians were very anxious that the funeral should take place on Manday, before the sun had gone down on the torpec; but the necessary preparations could not be made in time, at length they reconciled themselves to the European forms. Thus, instead of being buried in a mitting posture, the body was laid in the grave, and the service for the dead was read. The second in rank of the strangers, Shahwhash, then delivered a native oration in short measured scattenees, very emphatic, and with long pauses between. The River Amason.-We learn from the Hampshire elegraph, that Lieut Wm Smythe, and Mr Frederick Lowe mate of the Samarang, were left at Callao, when that vessel sailed for England, they having volunteered beir services, at the request of the Peruvian Governmen to proceed to Lima, for the purpose of embarking on one of the branches of the river Amazon, to explore their way until its junction with the main stream, down which they are to voyage to the sea. The object is to ascertain by survey, the practicability of bringing goods up the fiver Amazon, to within twelve days journey of Lima, thus opening a new channel for the commerce of Europe with Peru, without the danger and loss of time consequent on a passage round Cana Horn.
