Friday morning, June 19, 1846. The Oregon Question.

The rumors in regard to a probable speedy settlement of this controversy are assuming substance and credibility. The most respectable and well informed journals in the neighborhood of Washington assert with the autmost confidence that negotiations have been, or are about to be resumed. The correspondent of the Baltimore American distinctly declared to the Maching of the Control of the C rectly leading the way to it. These instructions have been the result of renewed and friendly negotiations and of an understanding between the Secretary of State and the British Minjater. They do not, adds the writer, cover a direct offer from the Baitish Government, but a suppositions one, as for example, whether or not the Executive would submit an offer to the Senate, if made by the British Government, upon the basis of 49, with the Sunits of Fuca, and its harbors free, with privileges to the Hudson's Bay Company to the full term of the expiration of their charter—about twenty years I believe—with the Columbia river for a term of years.

That such an offer will be made is now generally related—that it will be accepted is probable—that it will be such mixed to the Senate aimost certain. For he first time those who have looked with forebodings tion of negotiations was given during the aitting of the United States Senate on the 10th, At 2 P. M. Mr. Tater, the Chief Clerk of the Department of State, appeared with a very voluminous corresponsked if the memage was of an executive chan d answering affirmatively, the Senate forthwith with closed doors. It is understood at Washing it with closed doors. It is understood at washing, that the message and correspondence relate to Oregon question, and it is further understood the he Oregon question, and it is turner understood that is reference to the acceptance of a proposition to active the Oregon question upon the basis of 49°, giving England Van Couver's Island, the free navigation of Colorador Couver's Island, the free navigation of rangemore van Couvers mann, me tree mangemore in the Columbia, and allowing to boin countries the navigation in common of the Straits of Fuca, with some advantages to the United States. Mr. PARENBAN, it is believed, has not made the offer directly, but he asks if it will be accepted, if made, and that is in substance probably the question before the Senate.

contrakal. "A confidential increase was transmitted to the Senate yesterday by the President, which, from the rumors and anticipations prevalent in the city losome days pass, attracted much attention. The measure is submitted by her Britanic Majesty's Minister to our Government for the settlement of the Qreson boundary question; and although, from the condential mature of the continuitiention, we have minimated to believe that it is "well-founded."

Oregon Question Settled.

Washioto, Tuesday, June 9th. 12 octock, M.

I am justified by my information, which is from inthematic sources, in saving that the Oregon questions, in fact, SETTLED, so far as the British government and the Fresident are concerned.

The President will communicate to the Senate, in few days, the proposition of Mr. Pakenham, and sake the advice of that body upon it.

A treaty will be concluded in a formight, beyond a doubt. The terms offered are such, that there can be no reasonable objection to them. They are, substantially—forty-une—whole of Vancouver's Island—and countron navigation of the Columbia.

The Union of the 10th instant, contains several espaticles from General Taylor in relation to the requation of Maiamoros, and other matters concered therewith. These communications are clarrized by the same simplicity and clearness of setcized by the same samplicity and clearness of style, alsence of flourish and egotism, as those descriptive of the battles of Pulo Alle and Research is a Palmas. Old Rough and Ready fights like a here and writes like a plan spoilen, etrong minded man. The first of those despatches is ditted from the City of Matamoros, May 18th. He states that not having a point train at his command on the 9th instant, he was prevented from following up his victory, by immediately crossing the river. Had he heen applied in the set for would have consider the City. bled to do so, he would have captured the City with all the artillery and stores of the enemy, and a great number of prisoners—in short he would have entirely destroyed the Mexican Army. He was lowever, compelled to await the arrival of heavy movers, competed to awar me arrive to the sound from the left bank. The enemy, he thinks, with the 300 mm left him, ought still to have made a respectable delence. Instead of a fight, however, they sought a

I replied to this, that an armistice was out of the question; that a month since I had proposed one to treneral Ampudia, which was declined; that circumstances were now changed; that I was receiving large reinforcements, and could now not suspend operations which I had not initiated or provoked; that the Jour most would occupy the town; but hat General Arises might withdraw his forces, leaving the publi-opersy of every description.

Administration of the above was promised in the after mon, but none came, and I repaired at sondown to om the Army, already in position at a crossing som two miles above the town. Very early this morning oin the Army, already in position at a crossing somius on miles above the town. Very early this morning the bank was occupied by our two 18 pounders an after the batteries of field artillery—and the crossing sommenced—the light companies of all the battalion-were first thrown over, followed by the vuloanter and sugular cavalty. No resistance was made, and was soon informed from various quarters that Arists and abandoned the town with all has troops the even may before, leaving only the sick and wounded. It is mediately despatched a staff officer to the priect to termind a surrender, and in the mean time a commission was sent by the prefect to confer with me on the same point. I gave assurances that the civilinghia of the citizens would be respected, and out troops at once dropped down specisite the town and crossed at the "Upper Ferry," the American flag being displayed at "For Paredes," a Mexican rejoubt near the crossing. The different corps at moor encamped in the outskirts of the City. To morrow I shall make suitable arrangements for the occupation of the town, and for taking possession on the public property. More than three bandred of theremy's wounded have been left in the hospitals Arista is in full retreat towards Monterey with the fragments of his Arioy.

I deeply regret to report that Lieutenant George Stevens, a very promising young officer of the second dragoons, was accidentally drowned this morning while attempting to swim the river with his squadron.

The next letter is dated the 20th May. After sta ing that he had, as soon as hostilities commenced, called upon Louisiana and Texas, each for a force of SIX regiments. General Taylon remarks that he requested General Caires to assist in organizing these regiments. According to the plan described in the letter to Governor Johnson—" I find however," adda letter to Governor JORNSON—"I find however," adda General TAYLOR, "that this organization has been exceeded and moreover that General Gairss has call-ed for many more volunteers than I deemed necessary, extending the call to other States besides Louisi-na." Under the circumstance he leaves it to the Government to say what shall be done with the rein-forcement. In the same letter General Taylor calls orcements. In the same letter General Taylor calls the Department for 1,000 additional tents for the

Then follows an extract from a despatch dated May 21st, in which General Taxton states that his movements will depend in a great measure on the extent to which the Rio Grande is navigable for steamboats, and thinks it doubtful whether a boat can now be pushed higher than Reinoma. This town together with such other points as a boat may reach, be in-tends to occupy as soon as practicable. All the cawan such other points as a nout impract, but the ca-lends to occupy as soon as practicable. All the ca-valry, regular and irregular, under the command of Lieutenant Col. Garland had been sent in parsuit of the retreating enemy, to harase its rear and captu prisoners and baggage. On the 34th General TAYLOR reports the arrival of General Sarra with the battalion of the First Infantry, the Washington Battalion of Louisiana Volunteers, and a company of Volunteers from Mobile. He mentions the return of the cavalry, under Lieutenant Col. Garland. and the fact of their having captured a small party. He amanimum east to the disposal a small party. As such his opponents may properly criticine tun official conduct and his political principles, but respect for the place he fills should deter them from politonery. The attack and the defence are equally reprehensible.

Vious, courage and manhood of old Roues and Ready—When General Taylor was a young man, says the Louwville Journal, he and an older brother, William, long since dead, swam from the Kentucky shore across the Ohio river to the Indian shore, and back again, without resting. The feat was performed in the month of March, when the river was awolien and chill. It greatly surposed the famous one of swimming the Hellesport, which is shout a mile across and of detightful temperature. The Taylors were not accompanied by a boat, as Byron was when he awam the Hellesport, which makes all the difference in the world. One winter, when General Taylor was assisted at Particular Ching he Villiam, long since dead, swam from the Kentuck in the world. One winter, when General Taylor was stationed at Prairie du Chien, he used to walk every morning from hwlodgings to the barracks, without a great coat, when the thermometer was forty degrees below zero.
