eary week in New York is usual a period of considerable sucitement. Variot societies of a moral or religious charact assemble every year early in May, to settl their accounts, encodrage their members i renewed sotivity and sucretos, discuss thends to be societies, and listen to addresses which are sensitions. ands to be accomplished, and listen to ad-dresses which are sometimes instructive and sloquest, and cometimes wearfioms and stilly. Most of these societies are not simply unob-jectionable, but highly praiseworthy. A few are little better than public muisances. The most violent, vindicitive, uitra and ridiculbus of all of them is the Anti-Slavery Society. Annually its members are convoked to hear Garmson and Wesnest. Partiture, and to bear Garmson and Westner. Phillippe, and other shining lights of Aboltionism indelige in pretracted and farcotous onshaughts on the Bouth. These resentees adversaries of slavery are so whit discouraged by the negative results of their botsterous eloquence. They continue year after year to thunder away, desouncing the Cessitization, anathematizing the Triese hismographs the Rible, and four-
