

THE BEE.

Subscription—two dollars per annum, payable half yearly in advance.

The Bee has this day changed proprietors: the former Editor having formed a new partnership, considers it his duty towards the public to express his gratification for the patronage which has been granted to his paper, from its first publication to this day.

The Bee will continue to be published under the same title by Messrs. G. B. BARRÉ, DUBOIS & DUBOIS, who have made arrangements in order that the paper be delivered as usual to such subscribers who have paid in advance, or to those who have not given notice to discontinue their subscription.

In a commercial city of such importance as New-Orleans, the principal object of the editor of a commercial paper is to render himself as useful as possible to merchants.

The Bee has not being formerly entirely devoted to commercial interests, the former editors had not availed themselves of all the advantages of their extended correspondences with the northern cities, France, England, Mexico, &c.

Such are the principal changes and improvements intended by the new proprietors of this paper, which has never pretended to enter in competition against its powerful rivals.
