FIRE! - A fire broke out last night, about 12 o'clock, i tie back port of the Marine Hotel, at the corner of Levee and St Louis streets. By the speedy exertions of the enkin s, the adjoining building were saved.

We call the attention of speculators to the sale that takes place to-day at the exchange coffce-house of two lots of ground, situated in Chartres street between St. Louis and Conti streets. These lots being in the heart of the city, afford to capitatists a rare chance for the investment of their

The intelligence from Washington continues to be of an uninteresting character. On the 3d in the senate, Mr. Benton presented the resolutions adopted by the great meeting convenied in Faneuil Hall, Boston. He said, in the course of his remarks, which were quite apposite, that in the great multitudes of petitions memorials and resolutions which had been presented to the cenate, few, if any, ever came forward with more imposing chims to the consideration of the senate. They come from a city great in itself, and greater still in the commerce which curiches it-the arts aild literature which adorn itand the historic recollections which illustrate it. They come f om a large portion of the population of that eminont city-This horng computed to be within the walls, and 2000 with out -minking a mass of 7000 citizens, whose voices were united and embodied in these resolutions. They were adopted on a spot sacrad to American history, and memorable for seemes of patriotic impulsion-in that Fancuil Hall, whose name nione imparts are interest to every thing which eme

We have Richmond papers to the 5th inst. We find he resures in them of the Virginia elections.

The soint committee appointed by the New-York legisla use to t ke into consideration the message of Gov. Marcy, pon the existing pressure, have made a report adming and ramying out the measures of relief proposed by him.

The following is the conclusion of a very sensible article which we find in the last number of the Covington Chronicle, the lang the reasons for the preference which that journal gives to Judge Dawson for the gubernatorial chair. The retains in the last number of the gubernatorial chair. The retains the most power of the gubernatorial chair. The retains the most power of the disinterested part he has taken. As the friends of Judge Dawson do not entertain the selfish, proscribing that mark the adherents of his competitor, it is quite the sable that a Cazone candidate will be supported by the tody of them at the next succeeding election for governor, and if Mr. Prieur should then be brought forward, it cannot for a moment be doubted, but that his present high-minded course will plead most powerfully in his favor. For our selves, we must confess that our political feelings have undergone a great change as regards him: we thought we saw in his candidature for the gubernatorial chair, a disposition to divide the demogratic ranks and hazard the success of our cause, without the same being of the least benefit to himself. In fact, at one time, we believed he had deserted those principles to which he had professed so ardent a devotion, and that he was secretly conspiring to place an avowed enemy of them in the executive chair. This will account for thomself, with which we canvaeved his claims, and enemy of them in the executive chair. This will account for thomself, with which we canvaeved his claims, and which we find in the last number of the Covington Chronicle, enemy of them in the executive chair. This will account for thousperity with which we canvaesed his claims, and will explain away many of the harsh and bitter reflections we passed upon him. The handsome manner in which he

Mr. Mr.Ls, a self-taught æronaut, made his first ascensio in a balloon on the 2d inst., from the Federal Hall in Baltimore. He succeeded to admiration, having, it is said, reached a higher elevation than Mr. Durant did in either of his ascensions from the same place.

Mr Editor—Allow me, through the medium of your pa-er, to make a few remarks in answer to an article in the Mr Editor—A flow me, through the medium of your party to make a few rearrak in answer to an article in the Louisana Advertiser of yesterday, over the signature of "Another Looket On," in relation to the controversy between the first are controversy between the first described with the devouring element, and has been very instrumental in preserving the property of our triangulating first, it is certainly no reason that another company may not be formed, which if it does not excel, may at teast be last efficient. And I consider the experiment in a fair way be be tried, by a number of young generative, with No. 2, have formed themselves into company, and obtained engine No 6 for that laudable purposes and it is certainly not criminal in that company to company, and obtained engine No 6 for that laudable purposes and it is certainly not criminal in that company to company, and obtained engine No 6 for that laudable purposes and it is certainly not criminal in that company to company, and obtained engine No 6 for that laudable purposes and it is certainly not criminal in that company to company, and obtained engine No 6 for that laudable purposes and it is certainly not criminal in that company to company, and obtained engine No 6 for that laudable purposes and the company to company, and obtained engine No 6 for that laudable purposes and its extrational to company to company. Now I hope he does not mean to say that he was infouned that No 2 hid get her pipe into the bouse, or that she played on the fire at all. For it he does, I can inform him more correctly, and so can every other acroad looker on, that No 2 at best only played on the slated roof, which answered no other purpose that to wet the men of No 4.

Besides, may not this order to No 4 to play away, have been given after they had been playing and had stopped?

For, it is well known that there are frequent eccasions for that borough. We believe, however, that this will

"Another Looker On" says he thinks if any praise wa due, it is to No.2; because, although she had nine squares further to 200, which is not the case, she was the e first. Now, he has before said that she had a horse and dray, and that No 4 had none; and I can inform him that the coupling pin of No 4 broke on the way, which delayed her long enough for No 2 with her horse to go two or three He also rays something about trickery. Now I should

Now I state have been silent on this point; for if there was any trickery in the matter it was certainly on the part of No 2; for No 4 only claumed the heavy, thinking she was entitled to it; but by his own admission, No. 2 resorted to rather strange means for obtaining it—that of hastening into the back yard and playing for some time on the back of the building, where it could do no good whatever, while No 4 was in front, playing on the fire, which she, together with No 3; succeeded in extinguishing.

Under the Paris date of 21st February, it will be seen that on the question of the consideration of the Pension List, in the British House of Commons, the Ministry succeeded by a majority of eight only; but this cannot be looked upon as a vote in which the strength of parties was tested, as Lord Althrop himself opposed the consideration only on the ground of its being a breach of faith.

The Madrid Gazette of the 13th February contains a decree, convoking the Cortes for the 15th March.

Some disturbances took place at Lyons, on the 17th among the operatives—seditions cries were uttered, and a riot was commenced, which rendered the interference of the military necessary. On the 18th, it is state it that the malcontents had consented to resume their labor.

Paris, Feb. 21.—The London journals of W duesday are principally occupied with a debute which took place the preceding evening in the Hence of Commons on the Pension List, Mr. D. W. Harrey having moved for a committee to take into consideration each grant of that list. Lord A thorp opposed the metron on the grounds that the amount had been fixed by Parlia ment, on his Majesty resigning his hereditary revenues, and that it would be a breach of faith to deprive the holders of the pensions which had been confer of on them, though he was ready to admit that many of them were not entitled by their services to had been confered on them, though he was ready to admit that many of them were not entitled by their services to such a reward.
