LEGISLATIVE SLUEDERS.

LEGISLATIVE ELUBDERS.

The Gity Charter, being act 164 of the Legislature, was efficially promutigated in Thursday's County. We have no doubt that journal has followed the manuscript of the law with moute fidelity, and we therefore assume that the act as it appears in the Courser is textually the act as it passed the Course is textually the act as it passed the Course is textually the act as the passed the Course in the incomprehensible balderdash of some portions of the law. The 19th section safety providing that the two Boards of the Coupsion Council shall meet in separate chambers; that no ordinance shall become binding until it shall have passed both Boards, and that no squropriation, ordinance, or tax exceeding five hundred doltars, shall be passed, except by a majority of the members elected in each Beard, concludes in the following oracelar, mysterious and altogether Admirable perspiculty! The sentence broaks short off, and we are left to guess the remain-der. Is it possible that so important an act could have been framed with such culpa-

art could have been framed with such classics, the remissions and neglect? We might deubt it. We might imagine that a portion of the copy had been left out by the compositers, and the omission overlooked by the proof reader, but for the extraordinary coincidence.

Is not this the he place ultra of stupidity and singusture? The tax payers are gravely to the season that the law allows from two mouths during which they may settle their accounts: but at the same time they must pay up within thirty days, or they will be subjected to an additional suppost of one per cent. on the amount of their milks. Is not this in effects a complete shrings. "Hunter rushed out, exclaim that it is decided to an additional suppost of one per cent. on the amount of their water." "Hunter rushed out, exclaim that it is defined a complete shrings."

such and every income which shall not age.

The act which we agis prover to the city of New Orleans to tax personal property, exempts each and every income which shall not exceed $1,500 per-annum. Such that tegislation, which is itself the inevitable result of keeping back measures of the fail and agournment, whose they are her importance until within a few days of the fail adjournment, whose they are her ried through without due deliberation, and office, we suspect, without being heard by the order of color, and at night we had avery prespect to the fail of the man adjournment, whose they are her ried through without due deliberation, and office, we suspect, without being heard by the order of the fail of the man adjournment, whose they are her continued for the night we had every prespect to large the man and the man and minuted of one per cent on the amount of their hills. Is not this in effect a complete abrogation, of the farst part of the same section? It is a meerable mecker of the tax-paying momenty to assure them in one sentence that they can pay their taxes between the risk of May in each year, and in the next to stipulate that if they drive power to the first of May in each year, and in the next to stipulate that if they drive power to the first of April, they shall be soldled with a new tax of one per cent. On their bills. We are inclined to think that had this section undergone the slightest examination, it would have been stripped of an incorrect of the fact, and the remainal grossly inequitable.

The Charter, as our readers are aware, is immensely voluminous, and we have been subled merely to glance at a few of the more provincent of its features, but even this cursory and casual investigation demonstrates the resperietion of the act, and the criminal meglect of those who framed it, and to whose supervision and festering care it was entrusted.
