

Observations.

- 1) The name of one island in the drawing is Mattam, in the Pigafetta's report is matan (the today's name is Mactan).
- 2) The name of one island in the drawing is Zzubu, in the report is Zubu (the today's name is Cebu).
- 3) The port is drawn as an estuary, or creek, or cove port: the actual is a singular canal harbor, 5 nm (9km) long, delimited by the Mactan and Cebu costs, very near each other.
- 4) The islands are drawn in a fanciful way. In reality the Mactan island is very small, the Cebu island very big, and the shapes are completely different.
- 5) In the Mactan island there is an Italian inscription "Quivi mori Il cap.mo gñale" (Quivi mori il capitano generale).

May an honest man, let alone an historian, believe that this drawing has been drawn or supervised by Pigafetta?
